Commission, committee suggest changes

Additional recommendations aimed at preserving Sierra Madre through placing tough new restrictions on property owners will be discussed in a joint General Plan Ad Hoc Committee and Planning Commission meeting with urban planner John Bitterly on Wednesday, June 28, at 7 p.m. in the Council chambers at City Hall.

The joint study session will consider the Ad Hoc Committee's recommendations for downzoning of numerous properties through the community.

More than one third of the area of the entire city could be included in the proposed downzoning if the recommendations of the Ad Hoc Committee are eventually adopted.

The number of properties which would be affected total close to 600 out of a total of 3800 R-1 residences in Sierra Madre.

All properties north of Grand View Avenue would be rezoned to R-1-15000. Currently some 570 parcels are zoned R-1-7500 or R-1-9000, with one portion at the northerly ends of Adams and Toyon already zoned R-1-15000, as well as most of the area traditionally considered "hillside" — the areas north of Edgeview and the Monastery, then easterly along the line delineated by Carter, Mira Monte and Alegria, and Grandview to the eastern border of the city.

Placed under building moratoriums pending consideration of downzoning ordinances are a Historical Overlay Zone on South Baldwin, rezoning properties from R-3 to R-P, and various parcels on East Highland and Laurel Avenues and Victoria Lane, which would be rezoned from R-3 to R-2 or R-1.

The number of properties involved in the moratoriums and proposed downzoning in these areas are well over 100 parcels.

The Ad Hoc Committee also recommended rezoning of two large parcels from R-1-9000 to R-1-15000. These include the Krafft Estate and Jameson Estate. Recommended for rezoning from R-1-7500 to R-1-15000 are Sierra Madre School, Maranatha and the British Home properties.

The Planning Commission had previously recommended that all of these parcels be rezoned to R-1-11000, along with the E. Waldo Ward property, for which the Ad Hoc Committee submitted no recommendation.

In addition, Historical Overlays were recommended by the Ad Hoc Committee for Alverno High School and the Jameson Estate.

Following the joint study session, recommendations will go to the Planning Commission and City Council for public hearings and adoption of ordinances affecting the rezoning.

The downzoning ordinances would join other restrictive measures such as the Historic Cultural Preservation Ordinance for historic homes, and a number currently under consideration such as the proposed tree preservation ordinance which would preclude removal of most trees on private property and restrict even pruning; establishment of a Design Review Committee and requirement of Conditional Use Permits for all building or remodeling, and the Hillside Ordinance which contains provisions varying from one house per five acres to one per 20 acres below the 1200' elevation level and one house per 40 acres above that level.

The News will publish dates, times and places of public hearings on the various proposed ordinances for interested readers as they are scheduled.

Sanwa Bank loses $2000 in second armed robbery

Employees of Sanwa Bank of Sierra Madre are beginning to think that lighting does strike twice in one place.

The bank was held up by the same suspect who held up the bank a month ago, this time Tuesday, June 13, at about 1:30 p.m. Loss was $2000 in cash.

Liz Even, manager of the bank, told The News, "There was no one in the lobby and when he came in everyone knew what was going to happen. They recognized him from the holdup a month ago. He walked up to two tellers who were standing together and didn't mention anything about a gun but he had his hand wrapped, indicating that he had a gun. The whole staff knew he was robbing us and we hit the alarms while he was still at the window. The cameras got a good picture of him."

The suspect is a male in his late 20s, said Police Chief Bill Betts.

The bank is located in the 100 block of W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

Last chance for 'Dash for Cash' tomorrow, June 23

Tomorrow, Friday, June 23, is the last day foothill residents may participate in the Dash for Cash promotion sponsored by Main Street.

Contest entries must be in by 4 p.m. Friday. Those wishing to complete their entries before the deadline should deposit the entries in the official drawing drum located at the Sierra Madre News office, 9 Kersting Court. Prizes include $200 for first, $100 for second and $50 for third.

Winners' names will be drawn during the Fourth of July festivities at Memorial Park, Sierra Madre. Winners will be notified no later than July 15.

The business sponsors include At The Beach, The Spinning Wheel, Diet Center, Foothill Creative Arts Group, Little Stuga, Christopher's Custom Jewelry and Antiques, Delahooke and Associates, Restaurant Lozano, Madre News, Happy's Wines and Spirits, Crystal Cleaners, Climb Creations, Webb and Gordon Reatlors, Best Buy Drugs and Century 21 Village Realty.

Participants must have at least 10 of these sponsors sign their entry cards which are also available at any of the sponsors' businesses.

News office closed

The Sierra Madre News office will be closed Monday, July 3, and Tuesday, July 4. That means that the utility desk will be closed those days; however, those of you who wish to pay be check may drop your checks through the slot.

We will be closed Monday to paste up the paper early so we can take off for the holiday.

We hope that our little vacation will not impact you unfavorably. Ed.

Children chosen to carry banner

By Helen Walker

A random drawing of names has brought four outstanding young women and men to carry the banner that will lead this year's Fourth of July Parade. They are Christian Elsesser, Erika Fogderud, Tom McCarthy and Trisha Tyler.

Interestingly, all of the winners have lived in Sierra Madre for all of their lives. The members of the Fourth of July Committee drew the names from those who registered at the Sierra Madre News. The committee wishes to thank all the others who submitted their names.

Christian Elsesser is the son of Kenneth and Doris Elsesser who have resided in Sierra Madre since 1975. Christian is a sixth grade student at Marshall Fundamental School in Pasadena. He has two brothers. He plays the violin and piano and is a concert master in his school orchestra. One of the Beautification Committee's sidewalk squares was done by Christian. Currently he is appearing at the Sierra Madre Playhouse in their production of "A Thousand Clowns."

Erika Fogderud is the daughter of Ed and Marian Fogderud and has one older sister. She attends St. Rita's School and will be entering the seventh grade. Erika is now on the swim team and has been on the Sierra Madre softball team. She has four rabbits, a dog "Buster," a cat and two parakeets.

Tom McCarthy is the son of Tom and Jerri McCarthy. He has one brother and one sister. Tom graduated from St. Rita's this year and is to attend Don Bosco Technical Institute next year. He is interested in computers. He is also active in Boy Scouts and is now a Life Scout and is working toward being an Eagle Scout.

Trisha Tyler is a fourth generation Sierra Madrean. Her parents are Tim and Mary Jane Tyler and her grandparents are Bryce and Ann Tyler. Trisha attends Arcadia Christian School in Arcadia where she will enter the 8th grade next year. She is interested in sports — volleyball, softball and basketball. In fact, she has five basketball trophies. She has also worked on the school newspaper.

These banner-carriers have been given official Sierra Madre Fourth of July T-shirts, which they will wear in the parade. These T-shirts are available at Abacus, Arnold's Hardware, Birgensmith's Unocal, Happy's Wines and Spirits, Paper Palace and Petite Beauty Salon.

BANNER CARRIERS — Sierra Madreans who win carry the July 4th banner are Erika Fogderud, Trisha Tyler, Tom McCarthy and Christian Elsesser.

Beware the Fourth

With many Californians getting an extra day off from work or beginning their summer vacation, the four-day Fourth of July holiday weekend threatens to be one of the deadliest periods of the year on the state's streets and highways, according to the Greater Los Angeles Chapter National Safety Council.

During last year's three-day July 4th weekend there were 60 traffic crash fatalities stateswide, one of the highest holiday highway death tolls of 1988. The toll could conceivably reach 75 this year with the extra day added.

One way the statewide toll can be kept down is through increased usage or car safety seat belts by motorists and their passengers. Despite the fact that car seat belt usage is mandatory in California, only about 50 percent of drivers buckle up. Raising this figure to 70 percent can save hundreds of lives this year in California alone, notes Joseph M. Kaplan, president of the L.A. Safety Council.

One reason why motorists have to drive so defensively is that 50 percent of traffic fatalities are alcohol-related. Drinking and driving is not only a bad mix for the inebriated driver; it is also a potential death threat to sober motorists and their passengers, especially if they haven't buckled up their seat belts.

"If you drink, don't drive, and if you do drive, buckle up those seat belts. We want you back in town, safe and sound, after your holiday," Kaplan cautions.

Under the Pepper Tree

● The red box is missing. The honor box that the public uses to make change and to pay for photocopies and extra copies of the newspaper.

"The honor box." That's the clue. Someone decided to forget honor and to steal this box.

It happened once before and the box was found away from The News office. We asked no questions. We were just glad to have our little old red box back even if there were no coins left in it.

It's amazing how many people use the box. We've had several inquiries, "Where's the red box?" When we tell them, they are aghast. "In Sierra Madre?" they ask incredulous. Yes, in Sierra Madre.

Anyone who sees the box please give us a jingle and we'll pick it up from whereever it is. No questions asked.

● Last week we had a monster in our house. I started down the hallway to our bedroom and there was this thing, about eight to 10 inches long, just sitting there in the hallway on the light blue carpet. A lizard.

I squeaked and Don came running. We decided to corral it, throw towels on it and whisk it out the back door. I ran around the other side of the house and opened the glass doors, ran back while Don was grabbing towels. He ran around the other side of the house and stationed himself just in front of the monster. When it moved, I squeaked.

Don kept saying, "It's more afraid of us than we are of it." I doubted that. I knew it wouldn't hurt us but to see that outside beast inside our house was almost too much. It's OK to see those lizards zipping in and out of the pile of fireplace wood. I don't mind seeing them peeking in and out of the flower beds. But in the house? No.

Well, the lizard finally made its stand. Don threw towels over it and ran like heck to the back door, giving the monster a little toss onto the grass. Later that day the towels were empty, I imagine that little lizard is back home, telling his family about those giant monsters who live in that house.

How did the lizard get into the house? We don't know. Maybe through the atrium.

When we lived in Hawaii, it was great to have gekkos because they ate all the unwanted insects and kept the house clean. We even had a pet gekko that adopted Camee, living in her room, singing to her during the evening hours. We were pleased to have that pet in the house.

But in Sierra Madre, Calif. we don't need a gekko, and, thank you, we prefer them outside.

● By the time you read this the Morants will be home from a jaunt out east. They sent us a card from Lowell, Mass. that features a trolley that is used as transporation in the town. It's a replica of cars that ran in Lowell around the turn of the century.

Bev writes, "Just what we need in Sierra Madre." And mentions that it only costs 30 cents per round trip.

Wouldn't it be great . . .

● You can definitely tell that summer's here in Sierra Madre, and not just from the heat that is radiating up from the sidewalks and streets. The kids have set up their fruit and juice stands. Just a block away from us are two young entrepreneurs who are selling plums on one side of the street and lemonade on the other. That sun almost drove the kids inside until they fashioned a beach umbrella on their lemonade stand.

● By the way, we hear that Dominos Pizza will definitely be open July 3. In fact, look for a flyer in your June 29 issue of The News. That is our July 4 edition.

● Congratulations to Heather Tweedle Banis, whose name will appear in the 1988 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America.

Concerned about 'lack of cooperation'

This letter was sent to the City Council with a copy to The News. Ed.

As a general contractor operating throughout Los Angeles and Orange Counties, I wish to express my concern with the lack of cooperation of the city in the start time of a construction project.

In most cases there is loan money involved with a construction project. The process of plan checking has deteriorated to the extend of taking 60 to 90 days to complete. As a result of this a $200,000 loan could cost an owner $2000 a month in interest alone. With the fee schedule in effect presently a 2500 sq. ft. house and 600 sq. ft. garage, you would have plan check, building permit, development fee, school fee at a cost of $8119 before construction starts.

It is my opinion that when a set of plans is submitted for plan check that has a structural engineer's stamp and calculations it should only be necessary for a plan checker to review lot coverage, ordinance conformance and corrections to calculations where mistakes have been made. In that they have been certified by a structural engineer I don't feel it is a plan checker's perogative to add things of his own opinion.

I also understand that the city pays a plan checker by the hour. Why not have a set fee per sq. ft. varying according to type of building? I am sure this would cut the time element from plan checking. With the number of structural engineers in the area why not have several available for plan checking? When plans have been submitted for checking and the corrections have been made there is no need for them to go back to the plan checker. Anyone in the department could verify that corrections have been made.

You only have to be able to read to accomplish this.

I hope that the City Council will consider and implement some of these suggestions.

Doesn't think SMPBE is right

I am not convinced that SMPBE's goal of better education would be achieved by joining the Arcadia School Unified District. As a recent graduate of PHS with a younger sister who will graduate from PHS this spring and a brother who will enter the ninth grade there this fall I feel my experiences put me in a good position to point out some of the problems with SMPBE's arguments (as stated in the story by Joan Rose, Sierra Madre News, June 8) and point out that I have found to be the primary, overwhelming strength of the Pasadena School District.

SMPBE does some very clever statistical voodoo when in points to CAP scores as evidence of the superiority of the AUSD. First, they base the comparison on district wide averages. They later point out that Sierra Madre students make up only about two to five percent (their data is unclear here) of the PUSD. Thus, statistically speaking Sierra Madre students would make a miniscule dent in district wide scores even if they all scored 100 percent. It has been my experience, and I am supported by the input of my siblings, that the vast majority of students from Sierra Madre score much higher on CAP tests than the rest of the district. It has been my experience that the CAP scores and general scholastic success (not real world success I might add) is tied to the students family background, not the success of peers. Unless it is shown that Sierra Madre students score poorly on CAP tests these tests can not be used as evidence of PUSD's inadequicy (sic).

SMPBE also states that PUSD and ASUD are close together in the socio-economic status of their students and thus socio-economic factors fo not play a role in the differences between the districts. First of all, Pasadena is a much larger district and thus a composite of the income levels of it's (sic) students families that is similar to (but still much lower than) Arcadia's would have much greater extremes. A family living in southern Pasadena could therefore balance out five families living in the King's Manor housing project and make these six families appear the same as on middle-class home in Arcadia. Having attended Pasadena schools, grades 1-12, with students from poorer areas of Pasadena as well as knowing, through sports and social activities, students from both Arcadia and Pasadena I can assure you that Pasadena is nowhere near Arcadia socio-economically.

This further cuts the validity of SMPBE's CAP score claims as well as explaining why PUSD has a higher drop-out rate.

SMPBE claims that 50 percent of ASUD is minority and thus they are not running from ethnic diversity. More likely, they would rather chose (sic) what kind of ethnic diversity to have. I would very much like to know the source of this statistic and what exactly they are classifying as "minority." Having spent time in Arcadia leads me to believe this figure is very off. SMPBE claims to be for integration but what exactly they mean by integration is very unclear. From what I can discern they are simply giving the idea of integration lip service while running headlong into an economicly and thus ethnicly segregated situation.

I have many other problems with SMPBE (Are ASUD schools in fact any safer than PUSD schools? Petition signature gatherers who claim ASUD has two HS's rather than one. Etc.) but would like to turn to what is above all the primarily advantage of graduating from the Pasadena system. Very simply put, the PUSD schools, because of their diversity, force their students to look at the world in a open-minded, critical way. It is impossible to go to the Pasadena schools and not be exposed to new ideas which cause you to re-evaluate your own ideas. In college and the work world I have heard of no other institution that consistently forced people to think this way. Whether or not this experience is put to positive use by the student is decided by parents and the upbringing they give the student. I know most schools try to produce responsible, critically minded students but it has been my experience that in the PUSD, with interest and support from each individual's parents, this type of student is much more likely to result than any other.

I do not deny that there are problems in the PUSD; there are many. However, I feel these problems are not insurmountable. Taking into consideration the advantages Pasadena schools have given me in work and school I feel it would be a great lose (sic) to present and future students for Sierra Madre to leave the Pasadena schools.

Michael E. Tomlinson

Against separation from PUSD

As a Sierra Madre resident and graduate of the Pasadena public school system, I feel compelled to write in about the current push to separate Sierra Madre from the Pasadena Unified School District. I have read the letters and articles that outline the reasons for such a division, but have been unconvinced by the arguments, not only because of my own personal experience in the Pasadena schools, but also because of certain statistics I have come across.

It seems that a main complaint against the Pasadena Schools is that test scores are lower there than in Arcadia. But studies made by sociologists and psychologists such as Samuel Bowles, Herbert Gintis and Christopher Jencks have indicated that an individual child's test scores are not affected too much by the school to which they go. The child's family educational and cultural backgrounds seem to be much more significant. Because of this, an individual child has little chance of having higher test scores because of going to school in Arcadia rather than in Pasadena.

I have also sensed that some parents fear that their child will have less of a chance of getting into the college of their choice if they go to Pasadena schools. Again, studies show that this is not the case. The chances are approximately the same for students with similar test scores to go to college regardless of the schools they went to. In fact, some studies show that an individual student has a better chance of getting into a good college if he or she comes from a school with lower average test scores.

Another complaint of some parents is that there is more violence and drug use in Pasadena schools than in Arcadia schools. It is hard to come by good statistics, but my impression is that alcohol abuse is a bigger problem in Arcadia schools than in Pasadena schools. As for drug abuse, the drugs are probably different, but it is doubtful that the amount of drug abuse in Pasadena schools significantly higher than the amount of drug abuse in Arcadia schools. It seems that drug and alcohol abuse are problems which cut across all social and economic barriers.

As for my own personal experience at Pasadena High School, I have never felt that I was short-changed by my education there or at Eliot Junior High School, Loma Alta School, or Sierra Madre School. Academic issues aside, I feel that the social atmosphere was better for me than it would have been at Arcadia. I have met many people at college who feel uncomfortable in atmospheres which do not consist of 95 percent upper middle class people. I am happy that I do feel comfortable in these situations. I benefited greatly from the diversity presented to me in Pasadena schools as can society in general. We should have schools which mirror our goal for the makeup of society. To quote Christopher Jencks, "If we want a segregated society, we should have desegregated schools." This includes both economic and racial segregation.

As for academics, I feel my teachers taught me well and prepared me for college work. The quality and breadth of academic classes were good and I very much enjoyed the sports and music programs available. Also, the relationship between Pasadena High School and Pasadena City College and Caltech allowed me and many others to take extra courses at those schools. In sum, my pre-college education was excellent. It allowed me to enter college as a sophomore math major and has helped me to stay on the dean's list for all of the four semesters I have so far spent at school.

I hope that all reading this will consider the above and think very carefully about the pros and cons of the Pasadena schools. For me,

Christensen retires from post office

Next week Virginia Christensen, a familiar face at Sierra Madre Post Office for 24½ years, will be leaving the folds. She retires as of next Friday, June 30, from postal work that has seen her through being a carrier and then a window clerk, the job she's had for 22 years.

"I couldn't see carrying 40 pounds of mail when I got older, so when the window clerk job opened, I applied and was accepted," Christensen said last week.

The native Sierra Madrean attended Sierra Madre Elementary School, Wilson Junior High and finally PJC, which is now Pasadena City College. It was formerly called Pasadena Junior College.

She was not the first woman to be a postal carrier. Betty Vasi was in Sierra Madre before Christensen, then went on to Pasadena to become a supervisor.

"I like being close to home. I can walk to and from work and I can go home for lunch . . . The post office treats men and women the same. It's a great place to work."

Working immediately with her is another full-time clerk, a relief clerk and two substitute clerks.

She says that each post office is not run the same as it used to be. "The postmaster used to run the office. It has changed because of the number of people and the volume of mail. I work with wonderful people."

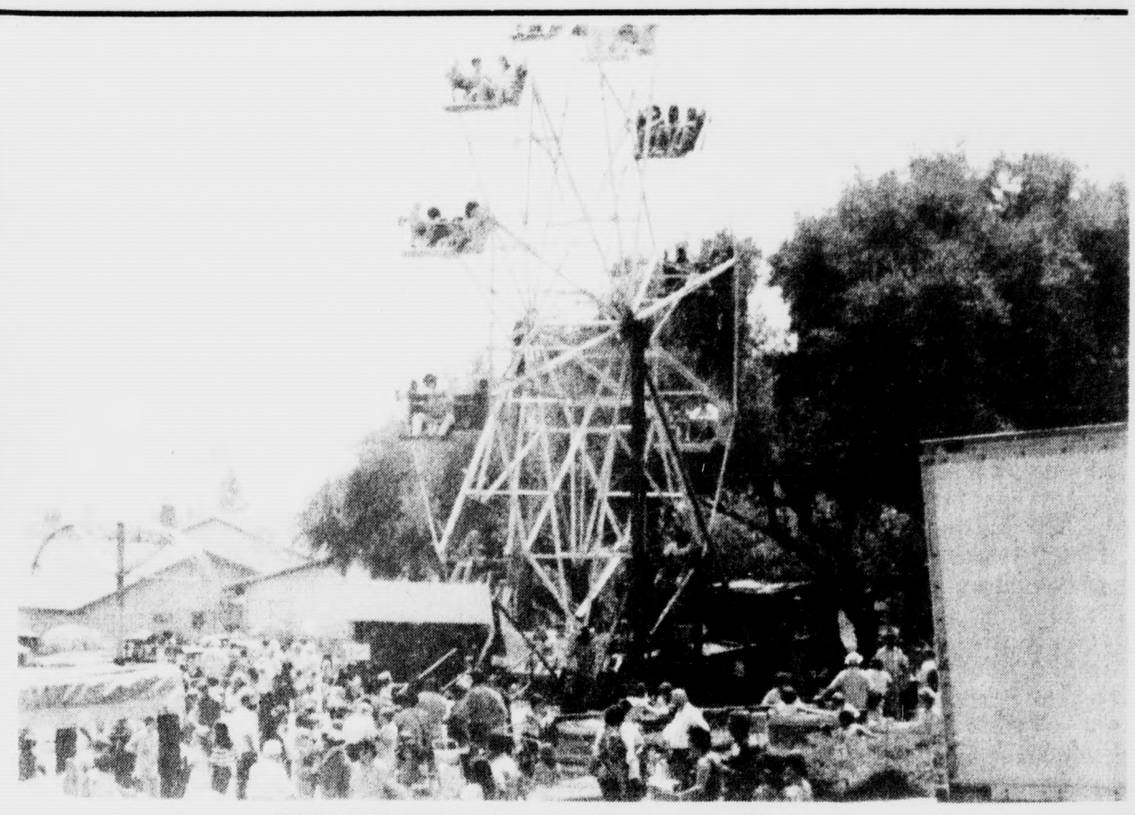

Has Sierra Madre changed much in the quarter century since she has been working at the post office? "Yes, but I love it. It's changed quite a bit but it's still a wonderful community."

Virginia Christensen

What will she do in her retirement? Her sister, Jean Holtman, is retiring, too. Because they live together, they plan to take off in their trailer and travel a bit. They might be gone a week or a month. "We'll just live from day to day," she grins.

Although Sierra Madre loses a faithful postal employee, Virginia Christensen will be around in the community, serving as a volunteer from time to time.

Midway at Retreat Center's Fiesta June 25

Mater Dolorosa plans Fiesta June 25

Mater Dolorosa Retreat Center's 42nd Annual Family Fiesta — a one-day event — will be held on Sunday, June 25, in Sierra Madre, on the grounds of the Passionist Monastery and Retreat Center at 700 N. Sunnyside Ave.

This free admission event will feature a family oriented carnival midway, with such attractions as major rides, pony rides, a kiddyland, bingo games, roving clowns and live entertainment throughout the day, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The Fiesta will also be highlighted by an "International Food Fair" that will offer food specialities from Mexico, the Philippines, Italy and Greece, alongside traditional, old-fashioned offerings, including Western barbecued beef dinners, special pizza, as well as hot dogs and hamburgers.

A special drawing will be held at 7 p.m. to determine the winners of a 1989 Buick Skylark, and other cash awards of $1000 and $500.

This occasion also is the one day of the year that the doors of the Retreat Center are open to the public for free guided tours, including bus rides through the Monastery grounds.

The first Family Fiesta was held in 1947, intended as a day of recreation and entertainment for members, family and friends of the Retreat League.

Fiesta proceeds helped to build the Retreat House, as well as subsequent improvements, such as the Fr. Isidore O'Reilly Wing added some four years ago.

Center Director Fr. Arthur Carrillo, C.P., is optimistic about a record crowd of over 16,000 visitors. Free parking for more than 5000 cars will be provided. A shuttle will be in service between the parking area and the Fiesta area, and also to and from the Retreat Center.

Rose Float sale

The Sierra Madre Rose Float Assn. reminds everyone that the annual rummage sale will take place on June 24 at the float building located behind the community pool and recreation center. All proceeds from the rummage sale will help fund the 1990 Rose Parade float, which is entitled "Child's Play."

Residents are also reminded that the Rose Float Association is still accepting donations for the rummage sale. If you have anything to donate, please contact Cynthia Benson at 355-9778 to arrange for pickup. All donations are needed, welcome and tax deductible.

Las Encinas part of new ESOP company

Las Encinas Hospital recently announced that it will become part of a proposed new multi-hospital company to be owned by its employees through a stock ownership plan. The announcement is part of a previously-disclosed plan for Hospital Corporation of America to sell its HCA Psychiatric Company subsidiary.

"We at Las Encinas Hospital are excited about this opportunity," said Tom Martin, hospital administrator. "First and foremost, it assures that we will continue to provide the same high quality service that this community has come to expect, under the same management team, and with our employees having the opportunity to participate in the ownership of the company."

The new company will be owned primarily by its employees through an employee stock ownership plan, or ESOP. HCA will continue to own a significant minority interest in the new company.

James K. Don, currently president of HCA Psychiatric Company, will serve as chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the new company. "Our company will continue HCA's traditions of physican-oriented and high quality health care in its communities," Don said. "We believe this innovative ESOP structure offers a great opportunity for all of our employees to benefit from the company's success."

MacDonnell finishes training

Pvt. John S. MacDonnel has completed training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

During the course, students received training which qualified them as light-weapons infantrymen and as indirect-fire crewman in a rifle or mortar squad.

Instruction included weapons qualifications, tactics, patrolling, land mine warfare, field communications and combat operations.

MacDonnel is the son of Dianne C. MacDonnel and grandson on Shirley M. White, both of Arcadia.

Woman's Club hosts sing-along July 4

By Phyllis Chapman

The Sierra Madre Woman's Club invites the community to attend their July 4th Pre-Parade Open House from 8:30 to 10 a.m. at the Clubhouse, 550 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. on the corner of Sunnyside, which is also the point at which the parade begins.

This is the club's salute to our country's 213th birthday. This year the open house will also be a special dedication to Parade Grand Marshals Jane and John Buchan and their many contributions to the community. Jane has been a Woman's Club member for over 15 years.

Martha Van De Verg, open house chairman, has sent invitations to Mayor Bruce Crow, Councilmen Roy Buchan, George Maurer, Clem Bartolai, Councilwoman Lisa Fowler-Farrell and their spouses and other dignitaries.

Club members will serve coffee, juice and donut holes. There is no charge to attend.

Ruth Teigler, deocrations chairman, will carry out a patriotic theme for her decorations and will present a very red, white and blue clubhouse for the public to enjoy. Alden Webster will be at the piano to provide accompaniment for the popular patriotic sing-a-long.

MAIN STREET
By Ron Hutson

Main Street's "Dash For Cash" promotion ends this Friday, June 23 at 4 p.m. Contest entries must be deposited in the official drawing drum at the Sierra Madre News office, 9 Kersting Court to qualify for the $200 first; $100 second or $50 third place prize.

There's still time to visit at least 10 business sponsors to have your entry validated. Sponsors include: At The Beach, The Spinning Wheel, Diet Center, Foothill Creative Arts Group, Little Stuga, Christopher's Custom Jewelry & Antiques, Delahooke & Associates, Restaurant Lozano, Sierra Madre News, Happy's Wines & Spirits, Crystal Cleaners, Climb Creations, Webb & Gordon, Best Buy Drugs and Century 21 Village Realty.

Winners will be announced during the Sierra Madre 4th of July celebration and will be notified no later than July 15. So, get out there and "Dash for Cash." Good luck!

Our 4th of July parade float task force is still looking for volunteers to walk the parade route as part of our "action oriented float entry." Interested? Call Joan Sheets (Little Stuga, 355-9113), Judy Webb Martin (Webb & Gordon, 355-2384) or the Main Street office (355-7135, ext. 223).

URM (unreinforced masonry) building owners and their tenants will be receiving invitations to a two-hour information session scheduled for Thursday evening, July 20. A panel including two licensed structural engineers with "hands on" seismic rehabilitation projects, a contractor currently engaged in earthquake building reinforcement work in Sierra Madre and Arcadia, and several additional building industry related resource people are being asked to shed light on the whys and wherefores as well as projected impact of compliance with the California State URM law.

Because the URM law's potential impact on downtown revitalization will substantially influence the economic feasibility of Main Street's developing marketing strategy, Economic Restructuring Council Co-Chair's Helen Elliott (The Spinning Wheel) and Don Grossman (Best Buy Drugs) view this information session as the opening gun in their continuing information dissemination campaign.

Weekly work sessions have generated excellent progress by the Design Council's "Design Guideline Task Force" to create design guideline text. City Council members will have an opportunity to discuss the guidelines in mid-July at their quarterly get together with Main Street and Chamber board members. An intensive community-wide information program will follow through the summer and fall.

Contact Main Street, c/o Ron Hutson, Project Manager, 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre, CA 91024. See you on Main Street.

Opening successful

By Marilyn Morrison

A tremendous success — Methodist Hospital's Psychiatric Services Open House. More than 300 people toured the completely-renovated facility; they gave rave reviews all the way. It's no wonder that everyone working on the unit was so excited . . . the "new look" is terrific.

Guests were impressed with the peaceful color scheme. Many commented on the panoramic mountain view and how it enhanced the resort-like atmosphere. Thirty-two of the 39 beds are located in semi-private rooms opening onto a large landscaped courtyard. The designated gerosychiatric rooms are camera monitored for the safety of older patients. Seven beds are housed in single rooms in a continuously monitored unit with its own garden and patio.

There is a common dining room with courtyard view and a 2000-square-foot lounge. An inviting occupational therapy room has an abundance of activities and opportunities just waiting to be pursued.

As one tour-goer quipped, "What a super place to pull it all back together again."

Psychiatric Services at Methodist Hospital have a notable background. In 1957, when the hospital opened in Arcadia, it was the first acute-care hospital in California to include an inpatient psychiatric unit. Old timers will recall that the 26-bed unit was originally housed on 1E in the main building. Then, in 1961, the service was relocated to Pavilion South and expanded to include 39 beds.

Praise is in order for the staff who so graciously and efficiently provided special activities for the patients to accommodate the time spans necessary for the open house.

"Some days it was all I could do just to get out of bed."

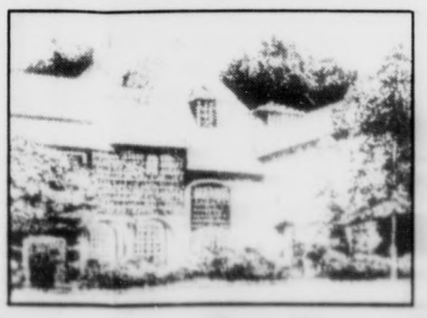

"All I did was cry. Everything that brought me joy. . . my family, friends, garden. . . I didn't care anymore. I was afraid to admit that I needed help. I had always been a strong woman. . . and I felt depression was a sign of weakness.

A friend told me about Las Encinas Hospital. The physicians and staff taught me how to understand my depression and how to overcome it. I learned depression was nothing to be afraid or ashamed of. The hospital's individualized treatment programs and serene environment met all of my needs.

Now getting out of bed each morning is a joy. My husband, children, and garden are fine! So am I!

Summer volunteer opportunities at Las Encinas

Adult volunteer positions are currently available at Las Encinas Hospital. Individuals interested in providing volunteer services may select from a variety of possible opportunities. In addition, volunteer hours are flexible and may be accommodated to meet each individual's personal schedule.

Volunteer opportunities include assisting hospital staff in clinical and nonclinical departments. Theresa Daley, Director of Volunteer Services, works closely with each volunteer to insure their individual skills are appropriately utilized for personal and professional enrichment.

Located in historic Pasadena, Las Encinas Hospital is a 153-bed psychiatric facility situated on 27-beautifully landscaped acres. Founded in 1904, the hospital provides a continuum of care including acute and long-term adult psychiatric, a chemical dependence program and an adolscent program with a chemical dependence component.

For more information on Las Encinas Hospital's Volunteer Program or to schedule an appointment, please contact Theresa Daley at (818) 356-2605.

Homeowners/ Residents to meet June 22

Sierra Madre residents interested in the protection of native plant life unique to our hillsides will be especially interested in the Sierra Madre Homeowners and Residents Association program for June 22, at 7:30 p.m. Rick Fisher of the California Native Plants Society will be speaking about the problems southland foothill residents face when living in areas adjacent to the highly fire-prone plant community known as the "Chapparel."

Fisher is a landscape architect who specializes in the plant life native to our foothills. Information on the preservation of the native oak trees that many of our residents have on their properties will be available, as well. The meeting is open to all interested persons at the Senior Citizens Center in Memorial Park.

P.O. motorizes more of S.M.

The Post Office has requested that parts of Sierra Madre switch from postal carrier to delivery by truck, according to Nancy Werengren who is supervising that transfer.

"When we become motorized, residents should receive their mail in 15 minutes instead of 35 minutes and they will be getting it in the morning instead of as late as 3:30 p.m.," she says.

She refers to the area — Route 8 — on the north and east side of Baldwin, north of Sierra Madre Blvd. and south of Grandview, about 2½ city blocks.

"We are changing to motorized delivery to make the post office more cost efficient. Boxes on the street will cut down on the overall time and the cost, and on top of that they have the advantage of getting their mail earlier."

Is the program receiving cooperation from those residents affected? Werengren said people were willing to cooperate.

"We had a recent problem on Sycamore when mail was curtailed on the whole street because of loose dogs. If we had been delivering from a vehicle we would have saved the post office money because we could have continued to deliver," she explains.

Motorization will save money because only one person will be needed to handle the same job that it took two to complete, a delivery relay and a parcel post person.

Now there will be plenty of time for a second person to accomplish other duties," she concluded.

Newbery opens bicycle shop

Bill Newbery plans the grand opening of his Bill's Bike Shop this Saturday, June 24 and the open house will last through July 4.

Location of the shop is 282 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

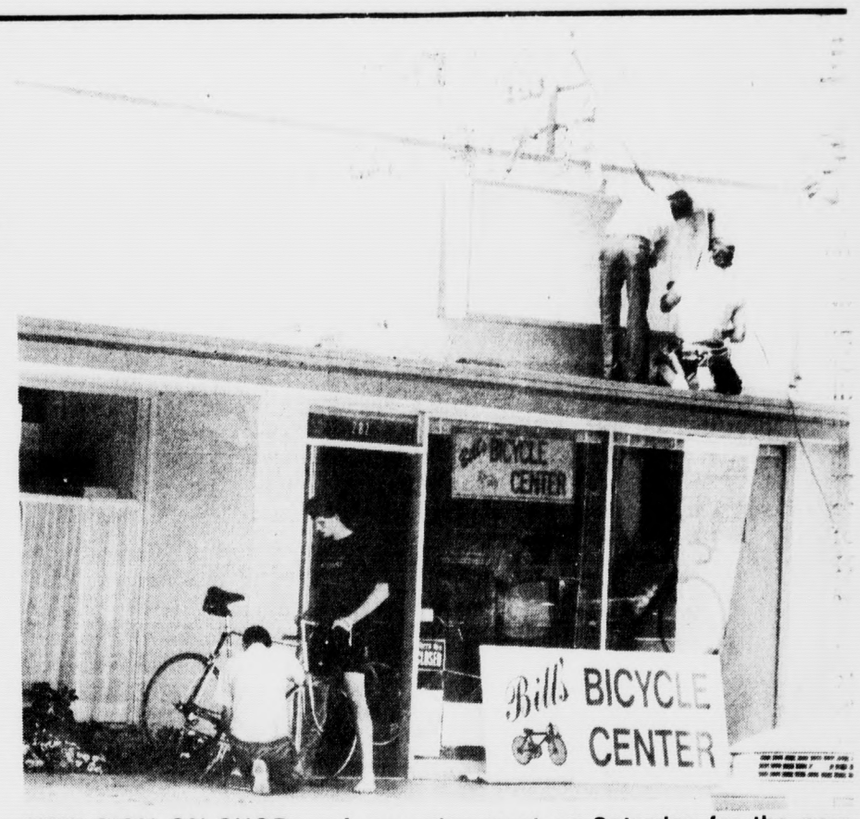

Newbery's partners are Jose Schnaider and Richard Newbery.

Newbery's shop features total bike repairs, new bikes and custom bikes. The lines of new bicycles are Univega (Japanese), Omo (Italian) and the MX and Freestyle, G.T.

The Sierra Madrean opened a shop originally in 1987 on N. Baldwin, then operated out of his home for awhile. This spring he moved to 282 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

Hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Newbery says he will be available evenings by appointment, 355-2549.

Newbery moved to Sierra Madre with his family in 1927 and he has lived here ever since.

NEW SIGN ON SHOP — A new sign went up Saturday for the new Bill's Bicycle Center at 282 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. Owners Bill Newbery and Jose Schnaider are offering a three-day, two night vacation for two in Las Vegas. The drawing will be held July 4 and the winners notified shortly thereafter. Bill is shown here servicing Eric Crawford's bike.

Ed Little

Sierra Madrean protects the law

By Jennifer O'Brien

What actually occurs in the courtrooms of America is a mystery to most people. Those of us who have not had first-hand experience with the judicial system, rely on the media and other second-hand sources for information. Unfortunately, justice is not always viewed as being impartial, fair or even blind, for that matter. Americans today often view justice as cruel, insensitive and biased.

Judge F. Edward Little is doing the best he can to change all of that.

Little, a 45-year veteran of the legal profession, feels that the law profession has contributed a tremendous amount of good will, but he says, "On the other hand, I'd be the first to admit that some of the things that some lawyers have done, are pretty shabby."

The State Bar is forming a committee to accurately advance its professionalism and increase the image of lawyers in the eyes of their fellow humans. Little feels this is extremely important and is very anxious to contribute.

Recently, he presided over a mock trial, in which 30 eighth graders from West Covina's South Hills Academy presented him with a simulated murder case. Little was thrilled and impressed by the thoroughness of their preparations and the maturity of their questions. More importantly, he has extracted some of the ignorance of judicial operations by providing children with a realistic view of courtroom proceedings. He is sure the event inspired some of them to consider law as a profession in the future.

Earlier this year, Little was given an award by the State Bar of California for his outstanding efforts to inform and educate the public about the system of jurisprudence. There is no one more deserving of this award.

Little sits as a "part-time" judge on the Municipal Court. His law offices are located in Sierra Madre and he is an associate and friend of Doug Farrell, whom he feels, "deserves some of the credit."

Little holds great pride in his profession, "I am proud to say I'm a lawyer," and vows to "go on practicing law as long as I live and continue to make my profession look good in the eyes of the people."

He will also continue to be devoted to the improvement of our judicial system, "I'll try to make the bar look as good as it can look . . . that's my mission."

Hector's Salon changes owners; same faces

There's a same face, not a new face, at Hector's Salon these days . . . and that face is Hector, the full-time owner. The name of the salon has been changed from Salon Santini since there is no longer a partnership.

Hector Gallego is into his fourth year in the Sierra Madre hair salon.

He's known primarily for his rod-to-roller transfer perms that gives hair a natural look, his hair styling, and color and highlighting. Hector and his employees are specialists in foil coloring.

Gallego is quick to say that all those people working in his salon are specialists in the rod-to-roller perms, cutting, color. They include Rene Krause, Stephanie Barnes, Susie Carlton and Susie Piscatello. Debbie Arton is the receptionist.

The Sierra Madre resident was born and raised in Pico Rivera. He went through the school system there and spent four years in the Air Force, two in Riverside and two in Japan.

His hair training was at the Marinello Beauty School; however, he has done many European seminars with such hair styling masters as Vidal Sassoon, Jose Eber and Llongueres. Gallego notes Sassoon's precision, Eber's free style and the creative flair of Llongueres as very helpful to his career. He also credits Jon Gunther, famous New York hair colorist, as a great trainer.

Almost as interesting to Gallego as his hair salon is his love of art. He is studying at the Art Center and specializes in the expressionistic school of fine arts. He likes the freedom of modern abstract, expressionistic art, he says.

"I really enjoy working in art, trying to get in touch with myself. It's good to be able to work in media where you can put it down. No one else is going to do that exact painting," Gallego says.

Hector's brother, Michael, is second baseman with the Oakland "A's" and is in training in Tempe, Ariz.

Alvemo High to host Japanese students

Alverno High School will host 40 Japanese exchange students from Fjuimigaoka Gakuen Girls' School in Tokyo this summer from July 22 to Aug. 7. For the sixth consecutive summer,t the Japanese students will study written English and practice conversational skills at Alverno during the days and tour areas of cultural and social interest after classes and on some weekends.

"We are just thrilled with the enthusiastic welcome our families give these students while they are in the United States for two weeks," said Lisa Bailey, coordinator of the exchange program and social studies teacher at Alverno. "The host families and exchange students share fascinating cultural experiences and, in just a short time, develop a face-to-face understanding of people from another part of the world," she added.

The majority of Japanese students have been placed with families from Alverno and the general Pasdena area, but a few students have not yet been assigned to a host family. Participating families receive $20 a day per student to help defray the cost of housing a student.

Persons interested in hosting a Japanese student this summer as part of this program should contact Lisa Bailey at (818) 355-3463. The deadline for application request is May 31.

Alverno High School is located at 200 N. Michillinda Ave. in Sierra Madre.

ARCADIA BOARD DONATES TO SCHOOL — Arcadia Board of Realtors, represented here by Gretchen Kelly of Sierra Madre and President Barbara Kuhn, last week presented a check for $250 for the purchase of a projector and two sets of Listening Center earphones. Addie Bossieux

Addie Bossieux honored

Addie Bossieux, librarian at Sierra Madre Elementary School, was named a Second Century Honoree by the Pasadena-Foothill Valley YWCA recently. This award is given in recognition of outstanding community volunteer service.

She established the school library 15 years ago and has been the librarian ever since. She has also been a nursery school teacher and was a YWCA director for eight years.

Bossieux is a resident of Sierra Madre, and has four children and eight grandchildren.

Kiwanians donate for children's fund

Sierra Madre Kiwanians are busy again helping others. The Sierra Madre club recently donated $250 from their children's fund to the Miracle Mile of Quarters campaign benefiting Children's Hospital, Los Angeles. The club also organized a community campaign in local businesses and the Sierra Madre Elementary school bringing in another $230.

Children helping children was the theme of the contest at the elementary school and Jacqueline Wilson's second grade class was the winning classroom donating $37.25. Miracle Mile balloons and buttons plus a gift certificate to Dirk Cable, Bookseller, Pasadena, donated by Hilary Gable were the prizes given to these generous children.

Sierra Madre members working with other Kiwanians in District 35, also helped staff a booth at Santa Anita Fashion Park last month where thousands of quarters were collected and laid out on the floor creating a path of shimmering silver worth over $4200 for the coffers of the Miracle Mile campaign.

MEDIEVAL FAIR — Gooden School entertained last week at a Medieval Fair and some of those who attended the art fair included Sharon Doyle (with the crown), Andrew Doyle, Julie and Michael Rosenthal, Dillon Rood (in the beret), Leigh Talmo and Jensen, and Amy Wilber. Parents and children dressed for the occasion and there were ancient games and music from the period.

Krietzberg in Republic of Korea

Army Reserve Maj. Roger W. Krietzberg has participated in exercise "Team Sprit '89" in the Republic of Korea.

The exercise involved personnel from all military services of the Republic of Korea and the United States. The purpose is to increase the defensive posture of the Republic of Korea and U.S. support forces through training in combined operations.

The operations include the reception, staging, employment and redeployment of out-of-country U.S. augmentation forces.

He is a security officer with the Military Traffic Management Command, Oakland Army Base, Calif.

Krietzberg is the brother of Linda J. James of Sierra Madre, and son of Mildred M. Kreitzberg of San Gabriel.

His wife, Brenda, is the daughter of Richard Talbot of Arcadia.

PERSONALS

TO ONE AND ALL — Paul and I wish to thank you from the bottom of our hearts for making our anniversary so special. The lovely memory scrapbooks, phone calls, flowers, gifts and Sierra Madre News coverage were greatly appreciated. The response to our grandchildren's special letter and many informal get-togethers were all overwhelming. God bless you all.

Derby Restaurant Happy Anniversary

History celebrated by Derby

Established in 1922, it has survived two World Wars, a major depression, Prohibition and, most recently, redevelopment which has brought a complete transformation of its surroundings. It is the Derby, Arcadia's oldest restaurant, located at 233 E. Huntington Dr.

Beginning as the Proctor Tavern located at the corner of Foothill Blvd. and Santa Anita Ave., the restaurant moved to its present location in 1932, and six years later, was bought by George Woolf and Bill Peterson. On Friday, June 23, the restaurant is celebrating that beginning over 50 years ago.

In 1951 the Derby was purchased by Dominic and Lorene Sturniolo, more affectionately known as Murph and Slugger. It was the same year that their son Charles, or Chip, was born.

The Sturniolos came to Arcadia with restaurant experience at the Old Virginia and Little Broiler, two South Pasadena eateries.

For Chip, working in the restaurant is the only job he has ever known. Beginning at the age of 15, his dad started him as a dishwasher. For almost 10 years he worked in the kitchen where he learned all about the preparation and presentation of food. The Sturniolos firmly believe that food is number one, adds Chip. They cut their own meat, grind the coffee and make all the dressings and sauces.

The Derby probably is most famous for its bacon wrapped filet and Irish Coffee. In fact, the restaurant is credited with introducing the coffee drink to Southern California from San Francisco and Shannon, Ireland.

Chip became a bartender, waiter, host and assistant manager. Then after managing the family's Orange County restaurant, he came back to run the Derby 10 years ago. He says that his dad returns to Arcadia from either Arrowhead or Palm Springs and offers his "pearls of wisdom," saying "I don't want to tell you how to, but if it was me . . ."

The Derby's menu features an Italian flair following recipes that have been handed down by Chip's grandmother. However, with changing times and dietary concerns, more salads, fish and lighter sauces have been added, Chip explains.

Through the years, the area around the Derby has changed, but no more than in the last year when several new restaurants and hotels have become neighbors. Through redevelopment, the parking area has been changed and new landscaping has been added. In order to assure parking for customers, the Derby now offers complimentary valet service.

Enhancing the decor at the restaurant is memorabilia from the sporting world, including pictures of horse racing winners and champion boxers as well as greats of tennis, baseball and football arenas. The collection of horse racing mementors no doubt can be attributed to George Woolf, former owner of the Derby who was a rider of champions until he was fatally injured at Santa Anita Race Track in 1946.

Though he came in second twice, Woolf was never successful in winning the Kentucky Derby, the only truly great American race event to elude him. He once remarked, "I guess I jinxed myself when I named my place the Derby, maybe I'll have to settle for a Derby in Arcadia instead of Louisville."

Another chapter in the story of the Derby concerns the formation of the Rouges, an organization which supports the blood program in Arcadia. The Rouges Gallery, located at the entrance into the Derby Lounge, pictures members of the organization.

What is next for the restaurant that has played host to millions of guests for over half a century? Chip says his goal is to take even better care of guests in the next 50 years. "We never, never want to lean on our laurels."

Phyllis Gough

Phyllis Gough retires

"We Love Phyllis" buttons were worn by school personnel throughout the Arcadia Unified School District to show appreciation for Phyllis Gough, district nurse, who is retiring after 28 years with Arcadia schools.

While each Arcadia school has a health aide, Gough is the district's only nurse for over 7500 students. Officially her title is department chairman for health services.

Gough says that in her retirement, there are "so many things to catch up with," indicating there has been not time while working. Travel is high on her list of things to do, with a trip to Russia planned for this summer and a fall excursion to New Zealand and Australia already scheduled.

Friends and associates recently honored the retiree at an open house held at the home of Melanie Topalian from Baldwin Stocker Elementary School.

Dinner, concert with Koalas planned by Sister City group

While recent advertising campaigns have urged people to "come to the land down under," this week finds a group of Australians traveling to North America with a weeklong stop in Arcadia.

The public is invited to meet these people, many of which live in Newcastle, which is Arcadia's Sister City, at a dinner to be held on Saturday, June 24, 6 p.m. in Ayres Hall at the Arboretum. Cost of the Mexican-style dinner is $6.50 per person.

Then on Sunday, June 25, the public is invited to hear the 160-member Marching Koala Band in concert at Dana Junior High School at 4 p.m. Cost of the concert ticket is $1 per person.

While they are in the southland, the band will perform at Disneyland, the Spruce Goose and the Queen Mary. On Wednesday, a fun day at Universal Studios is planned.

Coordinating the return of the Koalas (they stayed in Arcadia in preparation for their appearance in the Rose Parade in 1984) are members of the Sister City Commission, including chairman Jerree Lean, Peter Daily, Lorraine Fricke, Ruth Gilb, Barbara Saelid, Jack Saunders, Marie Schmitt and John Tarazi and Pat Williams.

For reservations to the dinner on June 24 or the concert on June 25, call 355-4295 or 355-8732.

DONATION FOR R.E.A.C.H. — Monty Lindsey, community service chairman for the Altrua Club of Arcadia, is shown presenting a $550 check for R.E.A.C.H. to Arcadia Police Chief Neal Johnson. Johnson serves as advisor to the R.E.A.C.H. program, an arm of Parent Alert Hotline, which educates young people to say "no" to drugs and alcohol. The Altrusa Club has donated a total of $1550 to the program.

MUSIC FROM TAIWAN — Pictured during a rehearsal are members of the Kuang Ching Chorus from Taiwan who will put on an upcoming concert in San Marino. Directing the choir, which is composed of many polio victims, is Diane Lucas, teacher and chorus director from Dana Junior High, who had an opportunity to meet the young singers on a recent trip to Taiwan.

Taiwan Chorus to give performance in San Marino

The Kuang Ching Chorus, comprised mainly of individuals handicapped by polio, will travel from their home in Taiwan to give a special performance in the San Marino High School auditorium on Sunday, June 25, 7 p.m.

It will be their last stop in an international tour that included a performance at the Very Special Arts International Festival at Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. last Saturday night.

Last year they sang for the International Rotary Club Convention in Philadelphia where a scheduled 15 minute show found the young singers kept on stage by the audience for 40 minutes, finishing to a standing ovation.

The chorus was formed in 1980 to help young people realize that through music disabled persons can stand up from their setbacks and disillusion to face the wonder of life. According to a story in a Taiwan magazine, "Standing on crutches or sitting in wheelchairs, they are not blocked from soaring on the wings of songs."

When a group of Arcadians visited Taiwan this spring, they had an opportunity to sit in on a rehearsal of the chorus. Diane Lucas, who is the chorus director and English-as-a-Second-Language coordinator at Dana Junior High School, said that hearing these young singers was one of the highlights of the trip. As she led them in the singing of a couple of Stephen Foster songs, she told them that music is an international language.

Tickets for the performance at $5 or $25 each may be obtained by contacting Min Mey Chang, 355-5031 or 355-6861. Provided that space is available, tickets also may be purchased at the door.

Dougherty attends confab

Mary Dougherty, a member of the Arcadia Unified School District Board of Education, recently received a briefing on major statewide issues facing education at the Legislative Network Conference of the California School Boards Association (CSBA).

The conference in Sacramento, which drew school board members from throughout the state, focused on such topics as the 1989-90 state budget; Proposition 98, the school funding initiative; overcrowded school facilities; and parental choice in the selection of the schools their children attend.

CSBA is a nonprofit association representing over 5000 locally-elected school board members in California.

Registration fee is $150. Visa and MasterCard are accepted. To register call (213) 343-4900, Continuing Education, Cal State L.A.

Red Cross elects McCann, honors Sheehan, Wayne

Volunteers were honored and new officers were elected at the 41st Annual Meeting of the Arcadia chapter of the American Red Cross last Thursday.

For significant service to the chapter, Alice Wayne received the Golden Bear Award. She has been a Meals-on-Wheels driver since 1973 and has coordinated drivers for the elderly to meet medical appointments.

Lucile Sheehan, who has been the volunteer executive secretary since 1981, was named Volunteer-of-the-Year.

Chief Harold McCann of the Los Angeles County Fire Department will take over the chapter executive committee chairmanship from Jean Cope. Other officers include Lt. Richie Mauch of the Arcadia Police Department as vice chairman; Ed Simpkins, secretary; Jim Dunbar, treasurer; and Ellie Corley and Ron Gielen, members-at-large.

Named to the board of directors for a three-year term were Barbara Chinn Breithaupt, Min Mey Chang, James Hanrahan, Steve Lojeski, Dave Parry, Lew Wagman and Nat Wess.

In recognition of their service to the board, several retiring members received plaques: Joanna Bruno, Cope, Robert Faust, Fred Linsey, Sterling Myers and Robert Sullivan as well as youth representatives Valleri Brandes and Henry Chen.

ELEMENTARY MUSICIANS — Winners of the Weidaw Award for Arcadia elementary school musicans are (seated) Vanessa Chao; (standing) Samuel Chung Jr., Deidre Olson and Sandy Kim.

Chao, Chang, Kim, Olson receive Weidaw award

Four Arcadia sixth grade musicians received the Kenneth Weidaw Outstanding Instrumental Musician Award which was presented at the recent Elementary Music Festival.

Recipients are Vanessa Chao, a Baldwin Stocker Elementary School student who plays the flute; Sandy Kim, Longley Way, violin; Samuel Chang Jr., and Diedre Olson, Camino Grove, violin and trumpet, respectively.

Each recipient received $25 and an individual plaque. Their names will be engraved on a perpetual plaque which is rotated among the six elementary schools in Arcadia.

The Kenneth Weidaw Award was established eight years ago at the retirement of Weidaw who had spent 29 years as a teacher and as coordinator of the school district's music program.

The award is given to outstanding sixth grade instrumental students who are members of the district's elementary band or orchestra. They must have maintained perfect attendance at all practices and performances, receiving a "superior" or "excellent" rating while performing a solo at a Southern California School Band and Orchestra Festival. The musicians also must audition before the final selection committee which is chosen by the school district's music chairman.

Sponsored by the Arcadia Music Club, 32 students have received the award since its establishment in 1982.

Camino Grove honors Robertson with surprise 'Day of Principal'

"Through thick and thin for work well done we give our thanks to Mr. Robertson."

This recent message on the Camino Grove Elementary School marquee expressed the appreciation the students and staff have for their principal, Bill Robertson, as the entire school celebrated a surprise "Day of the Principal."

The special day began with an assembly when the 25 kindergarten through sixth grade classes assembled to present "gifts" to their principal.

Presented sometimes by an entire class and other times by small class presentations, the "gifts" ranged from banners, cards, pictures and skits to songs, cheers and raps. Each class contributed a portion of a scroll which was linked together throughout the assembly and unfurled at the end to reveal the signatures of all the students.

Two teachers who retired at the end of this school year, Jean Phillips and Kyle Stevens, presented Robertson with special resolutions declaring newly established "Day of the Principal" and "Day of the Boss."

One presentation, not in the planned script, was when one little first grader ran up to Robertson and said, "I love you."

Another memento was a cake decorated with the inscription, "Mr. Rogerson, I forgive you." This came from a child who has had a running joke with her principal over the occasional mispronunciation of her name.

Robertson has been principal of Camino Grove since September, 1983. He began with the Arcadia Unified School District in 1966, teaching fifth and sixth grades at Highland Oaks Elementary. His wife, Susan, is a fourth grade teacher at Hugo Reid Elementary.

DAY OF THE PRINCIPAL — Staff and students recently surprised their principal, Bill Robertson, with a special "Day of the Principal."

Phyllis Wilburn

Hugo Reid PTA selects Wilburn

Phyllis Wilburn was installed as a second-term president of the Hugo Reid Elementary School PTA during a luncheon held recently at Brookside Golf Course in Pasadena.

Prior to assuming the presidency, Wilburn was PTA second vice president and book fair chairman.

This Pasadena-born volunteer received a Bachelor of Arts degree from UCLA and a Master's in library science from USC. A Girl Scout leader, she also is a member of Junior League of Pasadena and Women of St. Edmunds.

She and husband Stephen have two girls: Katie, who just finished fifth grade at Hugo Reid; and Meg, who recently completed second grade.

Adrienne Harper was installing officer of the PTA board that includes Sheri Bohonus, first vice president; Barbara George; Terry Leahy, third vice president; Sherry Salazar, fourth vice president; and Linday Stevenson, fifth vice president.

Other officers include Julie Postle, recording secretary; Glad Baquet, corresponding secretary; Darlenea Porter, financial secretary; Janet Lamoreaux, treasurer; Cathy Barba, historian; Suzanne Tauer, parliamentarian; and Sharon Medeiros, auditor.

Auxiliary Guard, Princesses named

Students who have been selected as Arcadia High School Auxiliary Guard members and Banner Princesses for the coming year were announced recently.

Carrying the Arcadia banner to lead the Apache Band in parades and performances will be seniors Lynn Anderson, Jayne Childress, Jennifer Daleo and Kathryn Hoar; juniors Suzanne Newton and Erica Williams; and sophomores Charlene Millan, Cathy Speraw and Janet Walker.

The Auxiliary guard, traditionally called the drill team, includes Jennifer Albee, Jocelyn Brewer, Kathy Capek, Kerri Chan, Jill Cheng, Kim Daniels, Emily Fox, Sandy Fung, Monica Gamboa, Traci Hamblin, Karen Hubinger, Akino Ichihara, Karen Koh, Judy Lai, Amy Lee, Jamie Lee, Krissie Leathery and Tracy Lyon.

Others are Allison Mack, Melinda McGrath, Charlene Millan, Naomi Munaweera, Suzanne Newton, Kelly Phelan, Bonnie Poon, Cathy Speraw, Ida Star, Kathy Szerdahelyi, Jenny Tai, Annie Tseng, Jessica Tseng, Kathryn Valentine, Janet Walker, Christine Wert and Erica Williams.

Joanne Daniel elected

Joanne Daniel became president of the Arcadia Child Health Council Auxiliary during a luncheon held recently at Santa Anita Gardens.

As installing officer, Laura-Ellen Speck presented each new officer with a personalized key chain, symbolic of keys to good health.

Serving on the board are Muriel Call, membership chairman; Phyllis Parker, ways and means; Mary Harvey, treasurer; and Joan Clarke, secretary.

The auxiliary is a support group for Arcadia Child Health Council, which provides mental and physical health needs for children who live in Arcadia or who attend school in the city.

Toys 'n' Togs, a rummage-type sale held each fall, helps raise money for the auxiliary which also participates in a charity day at the Santa Anita Fashion Park. Proceeds from last year's fundraising efforts netted $2250, which was given to the council.

Library slates illusions show

Magician Bob Stone will cause books to dance and float upon a magic carpet on Thursday, June 29, 3 p.m. in the Jerry Broadwell Children's Room of the Arcadia Public Library.

This Incredible Illusions performance is offered to the public free of charge, reports Karen Klingman, library spokesman, who adds that seating is limited and children under 10 years of age must be accompanied by an adult.

For further information, contact the Children's Room at 446-7112.

ADVICE ABOUT PERFUME

The wonders of man's genius! Perfumes!

Mysterious, alluring, romantic.

We wholeheartedly approve! B - U - T with reservations . . .

You see, a problem exists as far as wardrobe is concerned. Perfumes can damage fabrics or their dyes.

Women who know the technique of applying these heady essences — only on the skin, where the pulse is strongest — will find the delighful fragrance being wafted gently with each heart beat.

Since perfumers are manufacturing and marketing special perfumes and colognes for men, we suggest they consider the same application technique women have been using for centuries.

Should you accidentlly spill one of these accents on clothing, bring them in as soon as possible for cleaning. If we can prevent color loss, we will.

The oils, ethyls and attars and other ingredients leave a stain that becomes more difficult to remove as it ages. Even our highly-skilled tehnicians cannot always remove these stains.

For the finest wardrobe care, all you need to do is

Arcadia High graduates 620

A senior class that boasted the highest grade point average in the history of Arcadia High School was graduated last Friday night. According to Principal Jerry Barshay, approximately 50 percent of the 620 students earned a 3.50 or better GPA, and there were more taking advanced placement exams than ever before.

Barshay also praised the class for a "Flawless" graduation that produced not even one beach ball. He was referring to inflatable balls that have been tossed around, disrupting graduation in the past.

In accepting the class Superintendent Stephen Goldstone challenged the graduates to make a future for generations to come. To help illustrate his point he invited two first graders, who will be members of the Class of 2000, to take part in the program. They were Travis Cutler from Caminio Grove and Mary Ann Parrille from Baldwin Stocker.

"By the year 2000 you, the graduating class of 1989, will be having a significant impact on your community, your country and the world. And that impact will affect not only you, your own families, but also Mary Ann and Travis," said Goldstone to the graduates. He asked that they bear their responsibility "with integrity and joy, with seriousness and commitment, with love and hope."

A welcome speech was given by Robert Zirovich, senior class president, and Jennifer "Gigi" Yount spoke to the topic "High School — Bigger Than Life."

Dr. William Spuck, president of the board of education, presented Jonathan Lo, class valedictorian, and the salutatorians: Julie Bars, Maret Bower, Valleri Brandes, Del Brooks II, Indro Chakrabarti, Frank Chen, Henry Chen, Charlie Chu, Ben Chung, John Fanous, Yi Hsieh, Gigi Hua, Jennifer Jen, Aaron Jun and Frederick Kuo.

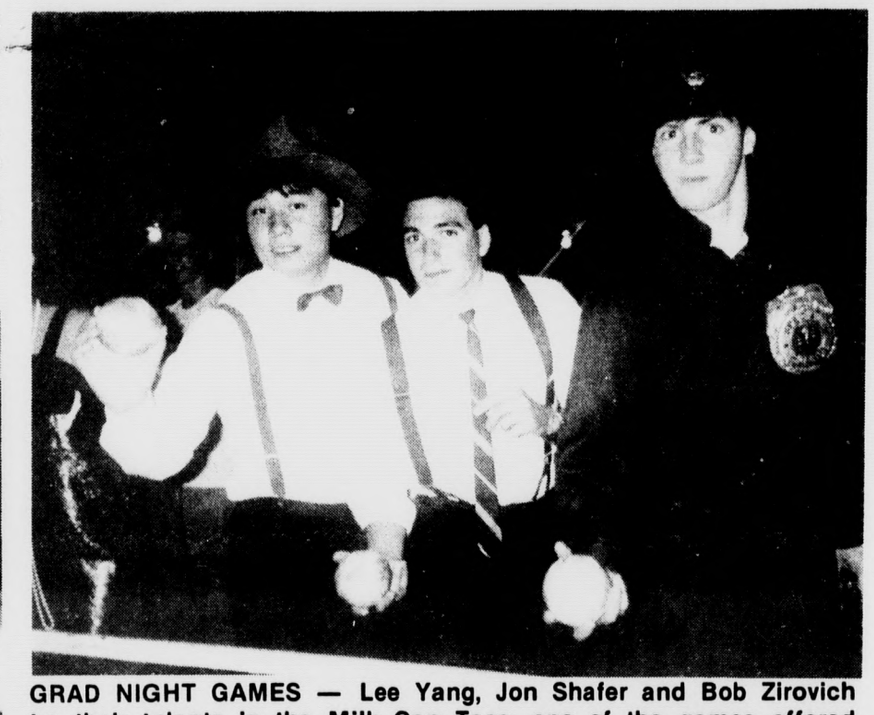

Other salutatorians are David Lai, Sandy Lai, Chai Sue Lee, Herbert Lee, Ming-Ting Lin, Peter Liu, Scott McIntosh, Mark Mitchell, Denise Nguyen, Tim Nguyen, Yan Or, Peter Sawires, Hilary Seo, Michelle Sintov, Dootsdeem Thongthiraj, Bih-Guang Tsai, Clifford Wang and Zirovich.

A Grad Night Party entertained the graduates to the theme "Untouchables '89, Going in Style" from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m. on Saturday morning.

Ching, Arboretum director, receives garden award

Francis Ching, director of the Los Angeles County Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens, recently became the first horticulturist on the west coast to win the Arthur Hoyt Scott Garden and Horticulture Award.

"Judging the progress Californians have made in facing environmental issues, it seems that the east can look to the west for solutions to some of our own problems," said David Fraser, Swarthmore College President, as he presented the award.

The award, established in 1929 at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania, annually honors an individual for outstanding national contributions to the science and art of gardening and for helping create a wider interest in the field.

As Department Director for the past 19 years, Ching oversees projects at the four county-run gardens: Los Angeles State and County Arboretum in Arcadia, Descanso Gardens in La Canada Flintridge, South Coast Botanic Garden on the Palos Verdes Peninsula and the Virgnia Robinson Gardens in Beverly Hills.

Beginning his association with the Los Angeles County Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens in 1956, Ching held a variety of positions, including grounds maintenance, research assistant, chief horticulturist and superintendent of the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum prior to his appointment as director in 1970.

Patriotic concert set for June 30

The annual Patriotic Concert sponsored by Arcadia Stake of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will be held on June 30, 7:30 p.m. at 614 W. Foothill Blvd. in Arcadia.

Featured at the concert is the well-known Southern California Mormon Choir. The group performs each year at Eastertime in the Hollywood Bowl and each Christmas they render Handel's Messiah at the Music Center of Los Angeles.

Russell L. Fox will conduct the choir in an hour long concert of patriotic music celebrating our nation's Independence Day.

The concert is open to the public and parking is free.

New residents brochures completed for Upper Hastings

New resident brochures will soon be distributed to new arrivals in Upper Hastings Ranch by a UHRA committee that has developed city maps, descriptive material on what to visit in Pasadena, and things to do, according to Wade Wright, task force chairman on the welcoming of new Ranch arrivals.

The collection of pertinent Ranch material includes a map of Pasadena and key places to visit, important telephone numbers most frequently called, a letter from the president of the Upper Hastings Ranch Association, and some historical material on legends in the Ranch.

The Upper Hastings Ranch Committee is composed of Wade Wright, chairman, Kathy Gregg, Maral Guarino, Lynne Wright, and Creath B. Smiley. Each new resident will receive the orientation packet.

Merry waggers at library

The Merry Waggers visit the Hastings Ranch Library on Monday, June 26, at 3 and 7 p.m., to kick off the summer reading activities.

A troupe of professional actors and actresses, the Merry Waggers, will perform their own creative and hilarious versions of classic fairytales. This program promises to be fun for the entire family, according to Donna Watkins, Hastings librarian.

Young people of all ages are invited to join the Summer Reading Club beginning Saturday, June 24. To join, children read a book or have a book read to them, then report it to the librarian. Prizes will be awarded as books are reported.

The Hastings Branch Library is located at 3325 E. Orange Grove Blvd., Pasadena. Those interested may call the Hastings Library at (818) 792-0945.

Discuss Christmas

It was Christmas in June last weekend when Crestview Drive residents held a pot-luck supper at the home of block captain Ovena Mayo to discuss 1989 block Christmas decorations that Upper Hastings Ranch displays.

On display were several block designs suggested by block residents along with a sumptuous block dinner. Block Captain Ovena Mayo and her husband, Chet, showed off some of their ideas. "It's not the one in the photo with this article in The News," she said. "We don't want anyone purloining our idea so the one in the picture is just an idea."

About 25 block residents gathered in Mayos' backyard and participated in a lively discussion on what they thought best for the 1989 Christmas event.

East Pasadena L.L. closes 1989 season

The East Pasadena Little League 1989 season closed last Saturday at Victory Park with 206 Little Leaguers receiving trophies. The Major Dodgers, managed by Jerry Levin, won the majors division and the Angels American League, managed by Bill Acker, won the Minors division.

The Minors team will participate in the city tournament. All games were played on the East Pasadena Victory Park diamond.

President of the Little League is Lola Jones; first vice president, Larry Evans; second vice president, Leroy Jones. Players agent for the league is Sue Acker.

Pasadena Republican Women to meet June 26

The Pasadena Republican Women Federated and the East Pasadena and La Canada Valley Republican Women Federated are joining together for a meeting on Monday, June 26 at which Lawrence G. Lawler, agent in charge, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Los Angeles, will be the speaker. The event will take place at Brookside Restaurant, 1133 Rosemont, Pasadena, starting with an 11 a.m. business meeting, followed by a reception, luncheon and the program.

President of the Pasadena club, Marie Koenig, will open the meeting, with the La Canada club president, Pat Stephenson, participating with that club's Chaplain, Sandra Richardson, giving the Invocation and club's Parliamentarian, Virginia Crawford, leading the Pledge of Allegiance. East Pasadena Club's president, Louise Osterman, will introduce the speaker.

The club's annual Membership Luncheon was on Monday, June 22. Those members in attendance who had paid their dues for 15 years continously were presented with their 15-year Godl card, and a corsage. Honorary Life Memberships were presented to Mrs. Henry A. Braun and Mrs. Arch R. Tuthill, the original founders and first president. Mrs. William French Smith and Mrs. Pete Wilson were honored guests.

Lovells receive accolades

A vote of appreciation was extended to Ray and Kathy Lovell, both past presidents of the Upper Hastings Ranch Association, at last week's UHRA board meeting. The board expressed its thanks to Kathy and Ray who are moving from the area after many long years of service to the Upper Hastings community.

The couple was the first husband and wife presidents of the UHRA. Under their direction improvements were made in relationships with the city on Hamilton Park and Ranch beautification programs.

New irrigation system

A new irrigation system is being installed in East Pasadena's Hamilton Park, according to Jess Hughston, Pasadena vice mayor. The system is being installed by Steven Shultz who has received a $91,000 contract to do the job.

The system will greatly improve the park appearance, Hughston said. It will be completed by fall and should not disturb park summer activity, he said.

Students win awards; train as docents

A team from Wilson Middle School, Pasadena Unified School System, took first place in spatial relationships in their age group at the Los Angeles County Mathematics Field Day for local fourth, fifth and sixth graders. Those students included Patrick Erickson, Robert Ewing, David Hochendel and Aristotle Ramos.

Fourth grade team participants who took first place in problem-solving included Eric Benson, Vivien Cao, Tim Overton and Karen Roman.

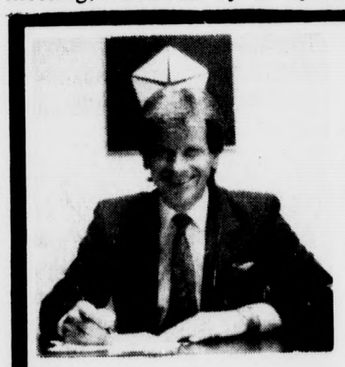

Winning fifth graders were Jeffrey Jordan, Ethan Shears, Fred Tatylan and Dominic Vaughn. They were from Longfellow Elementary.

Sierra Madre Elementary School team that won was announced in last week's issue of The News.

This is the third year the special day has been held at Pasadena High School.

Gifted seventh and eighth grade students from Pasadena Schools are being trained to become guides at the Gamble House. This is the 10th year of this type of training.

The Gamble House, built by Charles and Henry Greene in 1907, is supposed to be the greatest of the Craftsman style houses as designated as a National Historic Landmark. About 22,000 visitors go through the home annually.

On Stage

By Mary Cogswell Baum

Two productions opened this week that are devoted simply to laughter. By coincidence, both are faintly related to the classical world.

Closest to home is the California Music Theater productions of "A Funny Thing Happened On the Way to the Forum," book by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart (Gelbart was a writer on "M*A*S*H") and music and lyrics by Steven Sondheim — some of the most tuneful and clever work. For the historically minded, the plot comes from two plays by the Roman Plautus who was turning out this stuff over 1500 years ago!

"Forum" is a good bawdy show, and director Gary Davis could have gone overboard with it and didn't, and the result is a wonderfully relaxed evening of nonsense. E.E. Bell plays the lead as Pseudolus, a slave so desperate for freedom that he undertakes to steal Philia, a young courtesan, bought by the brutal General Miles Gloriosus, but with whom his young master, Hero, has fallen in love. He is reluctantly aided by a fellow slave, Hysterium, a bevy of gorgeous girls, people with names like Erroneous and Senex and three adept Proteans. (Proteus, you will recall, was a mythological character famous for changing shape at will.)

Bell and Michael Tucci as Hysterium easily dominate the stage, ably supported by Kelly Britt and Barney Martin as Hero's parents, Richard Waterhouse as the gawky Hero himself, and Heather Lee ("All I am is lovely!") as his simpering light-o-love, and everybody else. Almost, Tom Netherton, who should dominate when he is on, plays Miles Gloriosus so tamely that he seems bewildered rather than enraged. The bluster, the commanding voice just isn't there.

"Forum" is a lively and colorful show, and the kind of sexy that even that aunt from Iowa would forgive. It runs on Tuesdays through Saturdays through July 2 with a couple of matinees at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium. Call 410-1062 for information.

Containing even more spectacle and even less sense is the Los Angeles production of "Orpheus in the Underworld" currently at the Pavilion in the Music Center. There is an old saying among actors, "Never share the stage with an animal or a child" to which some wag in this production has added or "Gerald Scarfe." The celebrated English cartoonist has taken over the stage for his gaudy, satiric vision of 19th century manners and morals. The sets and transformation scenes are very funny. So are the costumes — the huntress Diana in jodhpurs, Mars completely suffocated in armor, Venus as Marilyn Monroe. So is Mercury, in silver sequins and tap shoes, striking Florist Delivery Service poses. I am no opera expert, but Tracy Dahl as a petulant Eurydice and Stephanie Vlhos as Venus sounded good to me.

The whole thing put me in mind of English pantomime which is also cheerfully satiric without much actual point. As usually happens, the miked voices added volume without adding clarity and I got lost in the lyrics, but as an exercise in absurdity it is a lot of fun.

What Don DeLuise was was doing in it I have no idea.

Summer sessions at Creative Arts

If you are looking for a creative way to spend your summer, the Creative Arts Group, located at 108 N. Baldwin in Sierra Madre, is offering two, six-week sessions of arts and crafts classes for students of all ages. Session one begins on June 19 and session two begins on July 31. Both sessions run for six weeks.

Adults and teens can take ongoing classes in watercolor, ceramics, drawing, enameling, painting and pastels. For children, the ever-popular multi-media, mud shop and drawing and painting classes will again be offered. New to the program are creative writing for teens and mural painting for children.

Several one- and two-day workshops feature instruction in papermaking, ceramic jewelry, ceramic boxes and quiltmaking. Young children will also have an opportunity to study ancient Egypt and make their own mummies from papier mache or design clown costumes for their own use.

Further information about these and other classes can be obtained by calling the art center at (818) 355-8350 or stopping in for a class schedule Monday through Friday from 9 to 5. Creative Arts Group is a nonprofit agency that offers low-cost classes to the community throughout the year. We also maintain an art gallery and gift shop showcasing many local artists.

Tuition-free music program available

Young people and adults can beat summer boredom by joining the second annual Summer Youth Orchestra or the new Jazz Workshop offered at Citrus College.

The tuition-free program, which will meet Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from June 20 - July 27, is offered by the college's Non-Credit Education department, according to Jim Gulli, director of non-credit and community education.

Orchestra rehearsals, taught by Dan Wilshire and Karen Cullen, are scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon, and jazz band rehearsals, taught by Barney Martinez and Bob Slack from noon to 3 p.m. Small group classes in brass, woodwind, percussion and keyboard techniques are scheduled from 1 - 3 p.m. Students can attend morning and/or afternoon sessions.

Musicians of all ages are welcome. However, all participants must have at least one year of experience on their instruments and jazz band participants are required to audition.

To obtain more information or to reserve a space call the Citrus College Music department, (818) 914-8580, or Dan Wilshire, (818) 963-1405.

Join L.A. Zoo

Southern Californians can become a part of the Los Angeles Zoo by joining the 40,000 member Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association (GLAZA), a non-profit organization designed to support the zoo.

GLAZA members enjoy free admission to the Los Angeles Zoo and to 80 other zoos and aquariums throughout the United States. GLAZA members will also sleep well knowing their donations will help protect endangered animals and improve the Los Angeles Zoo.

Lipham-Andersen rites on May 13

Kimberly Jeanne Lipham became the bride of Jon Michael Andersen May 13, 7 p.m. at Santa Anita Church. Dr. Margaret Stevens performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Terry Lipham of Monrovia and Beverly Stanton of Plano, Tex. The bridegroom's parents are Sue and Robert Slight of Glendora and Lee Andersen of Redding Calif.

The bride chose an all-lace dress with large satin bow on the back. The veil fell from a pearl and rhinestone headdress. She wore diamond earrings borrowed from Nola Kowalavski who also coordinated the wedding. The bride chose as her bouquet pink roses with orchids nestled in a Queen Ann lace design.

Sherri Rogers of Moreno Valley was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Teri Simmons of Riverside; Chris Holst, Arcadia, and Jennifer Slight of Sac, the bridegroom's sister. They chose a Laura Ashley tea-length pink lace fashion and carried spring bouquets with orchids in the center.

Best man was Skip Holst of Arcadia. Ushers included Matt Hoenig, Walnut, the bridegroom's uncle; Bill Hoefferle, Arcadia, and Aaron Couch, Fairoaks, the groom's cousin.

Mother of the bride chose a pink, tea length gown with black flowers and had a corsage of pink roses and baby's breath. Mother of the bridegroom chose a periwinkle silk jacquard street length dress with a simple jeweled neckline. Shey had an identical corsage of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson

The bride graduated in 1984 from Cypress High School in Cypress. The bridegroom is a 1984 graduate of Arcadia High School in Arcadia. He also attended Citrus College, majoring in automotive certification.

The bride's father, Bob Slight, was raised in Sierra Madre and graduated from St. Rita's. He is currently CEO for Brownline, Inc. Sue Slight is owner of Your Color. Terry Lipham was a jockey who raced many years at Santa Anita Race Track and is now jockey agent for Eddie Delahoussaye.

Lee Andersen is accountant for a construction company in Redding and Beverly Stanton is a wallpaperer in Plano, Tex.

The reception was hosted by father of the bride and Nola Kowakowski.

The couple is at home in Arcadia.

Future Mr. and Mrs. Coe

Zehner - Coe engagement set

Wayne and Betty Zehner of La Palma announce the engagement of their daughter, Tamara, to Melvin Douglas Coe, son of Douglas and Mary Beth Coe of Sierra Madre.

The proposal was made when the bridegroom-to-be wrote and sang his bride-to-be a song.

The bride graduated from La Palma High School, and from Cal State Fullerton from which she received a BA in psychology.

The bridegroom graduated from Pasadena High School and received a BA in music from Westmont College. He is pursuing a Masters of Music and teaching credential from Cal State L.A., and is minister of Music at Bethany Church, Sierra Madre.

The wedding is planned for Aug. 5 at Bethany Church.

Area people graduate from U. of La Verne

Three area residents were among the 1562 graduates receiving degrees in the May 28 Commencement exercises on Arnett Field at the University of La Verne.

Angelita E. Gonzalez of Sierra Madre received a Master of education degree in educational management. She is the daughter of Laurence and Alice Gonzalez of Sierra Madre.

Roger L. Snelling of Arcadia who earned an MBA, is the son of Byron and Betty Snelling of Arcadia. Krista Lynn Carlson of Sierra Madre received a Master of education degree. She is the daughter of A. Brice and Carolyn Carlson of Sierra Madre.

Kyhl S. Smeby, retired executive vice president of the Bank of America, who in March ended eight years as chairman of the ULV Board of Trustees, addressed the Class of 1989. President Stephen Morgan and Board Chairman Ben Harris presented the diplomas to the graduates.

Dempsey - Burke engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald M. Dempsey and Mrs. George Weiler Burke Sr. announce the upcoming wedding of their children, Mary Dempsey and George Weiler Burke Jr.

The Dempseys live in Camarillo and the Burkes are Sierra Madreans.

The couple plans a July 22 wedding at Sacred Heart Church in Ventura.

The bride-to-be graduated from Santa Clara High School, Oxnard, in 1985, and from the University of Southern California with a B.S. in accounting. She was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority.

The bridegroom graduated from St. Francis High School at Flintridge in 1980. He graduated from the University of Southern California with a B.S. in finance in 1984. He was affiliated with Kappa Sigma Fraternity and was a member of Golden Key. He is employed as a financial consultant by Shearson Lehman Hutton in Pasadena.

'Jazz in Garden starts July 30

The Pasadena Historical Society's benefit concert series "Jazz in the Garden" returns this summer.

On Sunday, July 30, Shorty Rogers and His Giants will bring their cool sounds to Pasadena.

The final concert, Sunday, Sept. 24, will present The Modernaires with Paula Kelley Jr. Jazz legends, the Modernaires are making a rare Southern California appearance.

All concerts begin at 4 p.m. Tickets for the series are $85. Individual concerts are $35.

New hair salon opens

The window reads "300 W. Sierra Madre Blvd." It's a unique name for a hair salon in Sierra Madre and it's a new name just coined by Nancy Morgan and Dave Kallgran, formerly of Harmon's in Hastings Ranch Shopping Center.

Kallgran was a partner with Harmon's for 26 years. "In fact, my dad went with Jean Harmon. Walter and Al were partners in the Michillinda salon. They were like uncles," Kallgran notes.

Both Kallgran and Morgan said they were anxious to relocate from the Hastings shopping center. "Walter Harmon was cutting back and this gave us the opportunity to talk to Victor (of Victor's Dresses and Tresses)," Kallgran says. They are located in that former salon.

Nancy Morgan, Dave Kallgren

Between the two of these new partners, they have 34 years of business experience. Kallgran has been in the salon business for 26 years and Morgan for eight years.

They plan a late June open house.

Kallgren was raised in Fontana and attended the Richards Cosmetology School in San Bernardino. He has been married for 27 years and he and his wife have two daughters, one, 26, who is married and one,22, who is just graduating from UCLA. In fact, Kallgren notes, he has a new grandson.

Morgan was born and raised in Arcadia and now lives in Sierra Madre. She attended Rosemead Beauty School.

Both are taking cosmetology teacher training at Citrus Junior College and will begin teaching there soon.

"Sierra Madre is so friendly," both of them agree. while working Sundays for the past month, people stopped in and welcomed them to town.

Steven and JoAnn are remaining with the shop, having moved from Caprice to the W. Sierra Madre Blvd. location in Sierra Madre nearly a year ago.

By Al Elby

Our nation seems to be having a love affair with acronyms; and some of the more common ones are USA, FBI, EPA, WPA and IBM. However, let me tell you of one that is famous in Sierra Madre; and that is VBS. No, it's not a governmental agency but something far better. It stands for Vacation Bible School where for one week of concentrated effort your children are ministered to physically, intellectually and spiritually. We run them, fill them, and stuff them full of Bible, contests, games, crafts, cookies and just plain fun. This mixture may seem rather non-mixable, but the numbers that have attended for the 50 years we have been doing it substantiate its success. Last year we hit the high water mark where we ministered to almost 450 of your children daily and augmenting that number was a staff of almost 150. I would defy anyone coming on campus for the first time to even come close to estimating that almost 600 bodies were doing their thing at Bethany at one time. We've had the experience and know what we are doing so the chaos is kept to a minimum.

If you want to see something unusual and more importantly get your child involved in something very special, plan now to be at Bethany Church on Monday morning, June 26, at 8:45 a.m. I guarantee you that this will be one of the most important things you can do for your child. Let me also reassure you that we at Bethany take this trust very, very seriously and thank you for the opportunity to minister to the treasure of your life.

Survivors support group

A support group for those having experienced a loss has been formed by a group of survivors in cooperation with the hospital chaplaincy, social services and community relations departments of Methodist Hospital.

The group will meet at 2 p.m. the second and fourth Sunday of each month in the Red Cross building on the hospital site.

Discussion, support helps, resource material and relevant speakers will be part of the agenda.

For additional information call Methodist Hospital's Community Relations (Weekdays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.), (818) 574-3434 or Rosalie Dunham, evenings, (818) 574-0409.

Methodist Hospital also sponsors Friends in Need as an ongoing support group for cancer patients, their families and friends and an eight-part cancer education series, I Can Cope, each fall.

Lapidary Society to meet June 28

The Pasadena Lapidary Society will hold their June meeting on Wednesday, June 28 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting is held at the Trinity Presbyterian Church, 3740 Sierra Madre Blvd., in Pasadena.

Congregational

"Angels of Light" will be the subject of Pastor Dick Anderson's sermon on Sunday morning, June 25, at the 8:15, 9:45 and 11:15 a.m. services. He will be using II Corinthians 11:5-15 as his biblical reference.

We have all heard stories of miners in the California gold rush of 1849 being fooled by "fools gold." The saying, "all that glitters isn't gold," is true also when it comes to things far more precious, such as spiritual matters. Don't be fooled by "imitation gold" when it comes to spiritual leaders.

Jesus warned His followers not to be fooled by "wolves in sheep's clothing." The sad truth is that in every age there is a small minority of people who will pretend to be faithful followers of Christ when they really are not following Jesus at all. These people seem sincere and are very persuasive. They use the same words and phrases but they are "in the ministry" for their own gain and not to truly spread the good news of the gosple of Christ. In our text, Paul calls them "false apostles, deceitful workers, disguising themselves as apostles of Christ."

This is why there are such high standards for elders in the church of Jesus Christ. An elder, or spiritual shepherd is to be one who lives his life above reproach. Godliness must be more than an exterior "glitter" to attract attention. As you prepare your heart and mind for worship this Sunday morning, read again those basic passages on qualifications for spiritual leaders found in I Timothy 3 and Titus 1. Come to worship with a deeper discernment of godliness and a deeper appreciation for those godly shepherds who lead the Church of Jesus Christ.

Sunday evening, 6 p.m., will be a great evening of celebrating graduation for over 35 high school graduates at SMCC. This hour is for everyone who can celebrate the influence of education, the home, and the church on their individual lives.

Biblical Archaeology Society to meet July 7

The Biblical Archaeology Society will meet on Friday, July 7, at 7:30 p.m. at Arcadia Glendale Federal Savings, 100 S. First Ave., Arcadia.

Dr. Butrus Abd-al-Malik, professor of history at Cal State University, Los Angeles, will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Egypt and the Bible." The film will include many of the ancient sites of Egypt. Dr. Abd-al-Malik has taught at The Presbyterian Seminary in Egypt, at Princeton, Fuller, and elsewhere.

There will be refreshments and a free literature table. Donations accepted.

For further information, please call (818) 843-1357 or (818) 447-6762.

Family council at SNF, June 21

On Wednesday evening June 21, at 5:30 p.m., Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility will host a Family Council meeting. The topic presented will be "Emotional Consequences of Caregiving." Often decisions must be made for our loved ones regarding emotional issues. Do we bring them home? Is now the time? Are they, and are we, ready? This presentation will try to address these questions and others regarding emotional issues of the caregiving and often decision-making role. The speaker will be Gregory K. Overcross, M.S.W., MS.G.

Overcross brings a variety in both experience and education to his work with older adults. He graduated in 1971 from Whittier College with a B.A. in psychology. He received a teaching credential from California State University at Los Angeles in 1985. In 1987 he received two masters degrees from the University of Southern California, one from the School of Social Work, the other from Leonard B. Davis School of Gerontology.

Gloria Dei

The sermon theme for next Sunday at Gloria Dei Evangelical Lutheran Church at 186 W. Highland in Sierra Madre is: "The Theology of Sacrifice." It is based on Mark 10:28-31. Sunday School and Adult Bible Study follow. We invite you to be our guests.

A little girl broke her wrist and fractured her thigh but felt no pain. As she grew older she learned to be more careful. However, occasionally she looks at blisters and burns on her hands and wonders how it happened. She is insensitive to pain! Medical specialists call it ganglineuropathy.

There is another insensitiveness which is deadlier and more dangerous — insensitiveness to sin! Paul said of this malady: "Having their consciences seared as with a hot iron." (I Timothy 4:2)

Church plans Concert

"There's No Music Like Berlin's Music" is the theme of the eighth annual Pops Concert to be held on Friday through Sunday, June 23-25, 8 p.m. at the Church of the Good Shepherd, 400 W. Duarte Rd., Arcadia.

"If 'stepping Out With My Baby,' remembering a 'White Christmas' and saying 'God Bless America' sounds like a good time, then join us," urges Mike Ruggles, event spokesman.

The combined talents of director Jack Lantz, choreographer Pauline Lantz, the Chancel Choir and many friends and supports from the church will be represented in the performance, adds Ruggles.

Reserved seat tickets are $8 each while general admission is $5.

Child care will be available.

For more information, call the church office at 447-2181.

Day Camp set at Church of Cross

Day Camp will be offered from July 17 through 21 at Lutheran Church of the Cross, 66 W. Duarte Rd., Arcadia, for children entering kindergarten through 4th grade. The sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Fees are as follows: $40 — first child in the family; $30 -- second child; $25 — third child.

Area Lutheran Camps are providing the experienced staff. Activities will include music, puppets, games, arts & crafts, Bible stories, nature programs, swimming and a over-nite.

Deadline for reservations is Friday, July 7. For further information call 355-9394 or the church office, 447-7232.

Helen Cadloni

New Bethany principal

Helen Cadloni has accepted the position of principal at Bethany Christian School, starting July 17, to replace Diane Lopez who is leaving this summer to pursue private consulting and a teaching assignment at Biola University.

Cadloni comes to BCS from Grace Community Christian School in Sun Valley, Ca. She has served there as elementary vice principal, assistant to the principal, curriculum coordinator and third grade teacher. Prior to that she was a second grade teacher at San Gabriel Christian School and a first grade teacher at Pensacola Christian School in Florida. Her academic work was done at Bob Jones and Biola Universities.

Bethany Christian School enrolls children in preschool and elementary grades K-6. Registrations are still being accepted for the 1989-90 school year. Call the school office (818) 355-3527 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. or come to the office at 93 N. Baldwin Ave. in Sierra Madre.

WHAT WE TEACH
WHAT WE BELIEVE:
In our classes and course work, we teach how to move from sense living, that of living on a purely material level, to living from the center. We learn to live by spiritual principles. We know that the mind is not constructed to take two opposing ideas at the same time, and therefore, as we learn to develop the single eye, keeping our mind and attention on God, there is no room for depressing negative concepts and ideas. Since all life is an out-picturing of consciousness that which we seek, that which we think about all day long, is our experience. As we fill our minds with Truth, God ideas, God Principles, God activity, out lives outpicture this. Our basic idea is that there is one Presence and One Power. It is operative in our lives as we let it be.

Special thanks

On behalf of all 436 young people who participate in the Sierra Madre Athletic Association Leagues, I would like to give special thanks to Mr. Jim Picano, the new owner of Howie's Ranch Market, and his employees for their continued support of our Annual Pancake Breakfast.

This year, as in the past, Howie's Market not only donated the use of their store and parking, but also the proceeds of this traditional fundraising event.

It is encouraging to have another business man in our community who is willing to reinvest some of his time and and profits in the wholesome youth activities of our community.

Why town should secede

I have been reading with great interest the articles and letters to the editor regarding the school district reorganization. The reasons why Sierra Madre should join Arcadia seem pretty clear: an overall better education, a desegregated school district, the closer ties between our two cities, and having all of Sierra Madre in one school district.

What I have a difficult time understanding is the reasons why Sierra Madre should stay with Pasadena Unified. "All Children Count" has not done an effective job of explaining their reasons for opposing redistricting. Is it because of the decision made decades ago to join Pasadena? If so, maintaining a relationship with PUSD due to a traditional link is to the point of short sightedness. If thirty years ago the decision had been reversed would there be a current attempt to redistrict with Pasadena? I don't think so.

Some peole support the Pasadena school district because they or their children received a good education. Things have changed. Just because they received a good education doesn't mean everyone did or that their children will continue to receive a good education.

ACC states that White, Black and Asian scores in the district are among the highest in the area of the state. Could they now please explain why the average percentile rank for PUSD falls in the 30th percentile range? Pasadena explains it's (sic) historically lower scores on the type of students it has. A close review of the Social Economic Scores (SES) of the two districts reveals that Arcadia does have a higher, but not much higher, SES. It also reveals that Arcadia's CAP scores are far higher than the difference in the SES numbers can explain. In any event, what kind of school district accepts it's (sic) failure to educate children just because of the SES? It is this kind of defeatism by the Pasadena Unified administrators that underscores the need for Sierra Madre to join with Arcadia where our voices will be heard.

I would hope that if there are good reasons to stay with Pasadena Unified that ACC will explain them to us. I am waiting.

A traffic accident ensued when one auto turned left into a driveway without signaling. Location was the 300 block of E. Montecito.

Free stickers for hearing impaired

Special stickers that will identify hearing impaired drivers to law enforcement and other California motorists can now be obtained from the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV).

The hearing impaired stickers should not be confused with disabled persons' placards because the new stickers do not offer any special parking privileges.

Issued for the sole purpose of identifying hearing impaired drivers, the 3" and 3" stickers have a white background, black sound wave and a blue side view of an ear. A red slashed circle is superimposed over the ear.

Hearing impaired drivers who would like a free sticker may get one at any DMV field office. Anyone wanting more information about the stickers can call DMV's Public Inquiry Unit at (916) 732-7517 voice or 1-800-368-4327.

Betty McDonald exhibition

Photographs, drawings and assemblages by Betty McDonald will be hanging from the walls at the La Canada Public Library beginning July 1 until July 21 at 4545 Oakwood Ave. in downtown La Canada, (½ block north of Foothill Blvd. on Oakwood).

The visual stimulation of McDonald's high energy work created around the theme, "Facing Oneself," will provide the viewer with something to think about and question.

Eleven variances pass Planning Commission

By John Selbak

A joint meeting between the Planning Commission and the General Plan Ad Hoc Committee was held prior to the regular meeting of the commission on Thursday, June 15 at 7 p.m. in order to distribute the Ad Hoc Committee's initial report on possible downzoning sections of Sierra Madre (see elsewhere in The News). Also in attendance for the pre-commission meeting was John Bitterly, urban planner, who offered his initial comments and advice on the matter.

The regular meeting of the Planning Commission begain at 7:30 with Commissioners Jim Hester, Whilma Holcome, Ross Tyree and Chairman John Watter in attendance. With several members absent, the 13 item agenda, which included one continuation, 12 public hearings and one item of new business, was covered in good time. The following were among those items on the docket:

A front yard variance for Mr. Timms at 500 Mt. Wilson Trail, which was continued from the last commission meeting due to the applicant's absence, was reopened. The request was for the building of a parking pad for additional parking space. Neighbor Ray Anderson voiced concern to ensure that the work would be done safely as he lived just down the hill and had previous problems with boulders rolling down the slope. The variance was approved.

Ander Troedsson came before the commission requesting a side yard variance for an addition that would protrude 7 inches into the side yard setback. Two letters of approval of the plans were presented to the commissioners, and a neighbor from across the street also came to speak in behalf of the variance, which was approved unanimously.

A side yard variance for the installation of a spa was denied by the commission as requested by Louis and Patricia McDonald at 500 Manzanita Ave. Despite a letter of approval from the neighbor closest to the proposed site and an explanation by the applicant that it "couldn't be put anywhere else because (the applicant) would have to move concrete and wouldn't be able to put in any brickwork," Commissioner Hester still felt that it could be moved nearer to the house, thus deleting the need for a variance.

There was considerable discussion over a side yard variance for a fence that had already been constructed to replace an old pre-existing, nonconforming fence. The new fence was only 4 inches higher than the previous one, but by new codes it was in some places more than 2½ feet nonconforming. A neighbor adjacent to the fence complained that the fence made her yard "look like a prison." She was also concerned about liability of people climbing the fence. The applicant stated that the reason for the fence's height was for privacy and to keep children's toys within the yard. He went on to explain that construction had begun after receiving a building permit from the city, and it was only upon final inspection that he was informed of the variance. After continued debate, the commission finally approved the variance.

Burke Steed came requesting a variance for the addition of a kitchen nook at 648 Alta Vista. The commission, after looking over the plans, quickly granted the request. The same was true for a side yard variance for Dennis and Sherry Manning at 10 Vista Circle for the addition of a master bedroom and bath. Both applicants spoke in support of each other's projects.

Fred Crocket spoke on behalf of Robert and Katherine Clarke at 113 W. Carter Ave. in their side yard variance request for an addition. The commission approved the variance with Commissioner Hester abstaining from the vote on the basis of a "lack of information" presented.

Gordon and Mary Lou Caldwell received some smiles from the commission as they came requesting a side yard variance for the installation of air conditioning units. Commissioners quipped over "who would supply the units" as Caldwell owns Gem Plumbing in Sierra Madre. There was little discussion over the matter with the exception of Caldwell explaining to the commission the logistics of the unit placement and new low-noise machines. The variance was approved.

A potential three story variance was brought up before the commission as well as a request for a front and side yard variance by Carl Griffin on behalf of himself and his partner, Roy Thorson. Griffin explained that the three story situation was merely a technicality, and that the house would be actually a two story with a sublevel that would be built on a hillside lot using stilts. Commissioner Hester raised the concern that from the street all that would be visible would be the garage and the entrance, while Don Watts, architect previously affiliated with the project, came forward to oppose the project because he had "a better plan that wouldn't need all the variances." A motion was passed to approve the variance.

A variance request for a side yard variance to permit the addition of a den was quickly granted. The applicant, Margaret A. Beggs at 475 E. Orange Grove Ave., explained its need due to the fact that her husband's knees were weakening, stairs would give him trouble in the future and wished for a living space downstairs.

A rear yard variance request for a two story accessory building was brought before the commission by J. Denton and Patricia Allen at 250 W. Highland Ave. as an addition to their pool area. The building would be a garage with a recreation room on the second level, as well as have a deck and some planting surrounding it. The proposed structure would not quite be two stories since the first floor was partly sublevel. Initially, a side yard variance was also included in the request, but the applicant stated he was more than willing to move the plans over in order to negate the need for that particular variance. The neighbor across the alley objected on the basis that his view would be obscured and "there would just be wood and cement to look at." It was, however, pointed out that the alley was unusually wide (37 feet) and that the neighbor's home was at least 100 feet away from the proposed structure. The rear yard variance was approved.

The final variance request under the public hearing portion of the agenda was made by Gary and Joyleen Mendoza, returning to the commission after having their last request for a second story addition turned down at the last regular meeting. Several neighbors spoke in favor of the variance. The neighbors to the north, however, spoke in opposition to the variance stating that a second story addition would invade their privacy by having windows that looked into their yards. The opponents added they had lived in their home for 40 years and did not wish to have a new structure staring down upon their home and patio. Another neighbor spoke to the same concerns, and added that having such a structure looking down into their yard would lower their property value. Chairman Watter spoke up to remind the opponents that all the applicant had to do was move his plans over a few feet and he wouldn't even need the variance, and that in essence there was nothing anyone could do about his adding a second story. Watter also remarked that he is only asking for a variance to set him back 12 feet (10 percent of lot width, "and he has a large lot"). "If everyone had 12 foot setbacks, we wouldn't need a code," Watter continued. After continued discussion, the commission granted the variance.

During new business, City Administrator Jim McRea went on to explain matters pending and upcoming business for the commission. The matter of the General Plan Ad Hoc Committee was to be continued at a special meeting on June 28 between the two groups, with John Bitterly in attendance. McRea was asked if the General Plan would need to be revised, and he indicated that "as it stands now, it does not. But if the Planning Commission feels the way the General Plan Committee feels (which is that the General Plan is weak, even illegal), then we may need to hire a consultant to revise it."

Three Sierra Madre students part of Freelancers

Three Sierra Madre students who are part of the Sacramento Freelancers Drum and Bugle Corps are George Ptazinski, Kraig Pakulski and Jack Taylor. The fourth student is Sean McCarthy, La Canada.

These Pasadena City College students auditioned and were selected to be members of the group. Their training started last February in Sacramento and continues to this month.

Pakulski is the only one to experience a second year of travel with the Freelancers which consists of 128 musicians and pageantry corps. The maximum size of this competitive corps is 128 members. No member may be older than 21 years.

Students are picked up by a bus and driven from Sacramento about every three weeks during the four-month period. The training is intense.

The Freelancers begin their tour and final preparations June 17 with the California tour including 11 competitions. Communities where they will entertain are Riverside, San Diego, Monterey Park and Santa Ana.

The national tour begins July 16 for field show competitions. States where the group will tour are Utah, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Michigan and into Canada before heading back through New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana and Kansas City. They will be in national championships in Kansas City.

Support and sponsoring comes through parents and many Sacramento residents. The students are expected to pay about $400 for the two-month tour. Many of the concerts find nearly 40,000 in the audiences around the country.

IN SEOUL FOR CONVENTION — John and Kathy Tyler are pictured with the Olympic mascot in Seoul, Korea. He is president of the Arcadia Rotary Club, and they were in Seoul for the International Rotary Convention.

Arcadians attend Rotary confab in Seoul, some go to Beijing

Six Arcadians were among 38,600 people attending the 80th Annual Rotary International Convention in Seoul, Korea last month. Representing the Arcadia Rotary Club were current President John Tyler and his wife, Kathy, and former District Governor John Fee and his wife, June. From the Pasadena Club were Myron Stolp, also a former District Governor, and his wife, Alma.

The second largest Rotary Convention ever held, the event at Olympic Park attracted some 16,000 Japanese, which, according to the Fees, is testimony that people put differences aside and come together for common causes in Rotary. They refer to the strained relationship between the Koreans and Japanese.

The Fees attend a California Breakfast with some 700 in attendance. Here the guest speaker was General Lewis Menetrey, one of only three Four Star Generals in the American Army. What made his presentation so special, according to the Fees, was that June went to high school with him at Hollywood High School and they both belonged to the same club at Hollywood Methodist Church.

Myron Stolp, who had been in Seoul on business some 15 years ago, was impressed with the new, spectacular hotels, freeways and cars in the ultra modern city that makes Los Angeles look "old and rundown," "small and underdeveloped."

June Fee was impressed with a fashion show featuring Andre Kim's designs. This top Korean designer put on the best fashion show she has ever seen, explained Fee.

The local delegation expressed appreciation for the gracious hospitality of the Korean people who made possible a "shopper's paradise."

Prior to the convention, the Tylers and Stolps went on a 10-day cruise that included a train trip to Beijing. There, on May 19, they saw lots of students and people from all walks of life marching in a peaceful pro-democracy demonstration.

They report that they couldn't actually see Tian An Men Square, just a "sea of people."

Kathy Tyler said that she felt lucky to have been there prior to the violent military crackdown on the demonstrators.

She added that some of their activities were curtailed because of traffic, not safety.

Alma Stolp said that in Beijing there was a carnival atmosphere, and Myron added that as they drove past, groups of demonstrators would jesture with a "V" sign and cheer when the American tourists signaled in return.

Senior Friendship Club re-elects Don Gathers

When he retired in 1981 after working for Republic Steel Corporation for 47 years, Don Gathers joined the Arcadia Senior Friendship Club, an organization that has re-elected him president.

Gathers and his wife, Mary, who will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary in October, came to Arcadia in 1953 and raised their three children: Judy Kilgore, who lives in New Jersey; son, Jeff, who is with a consulting firm in Cleveland; and Karen, who lives in San Jose and is employed by Hewlett-Packard computers.

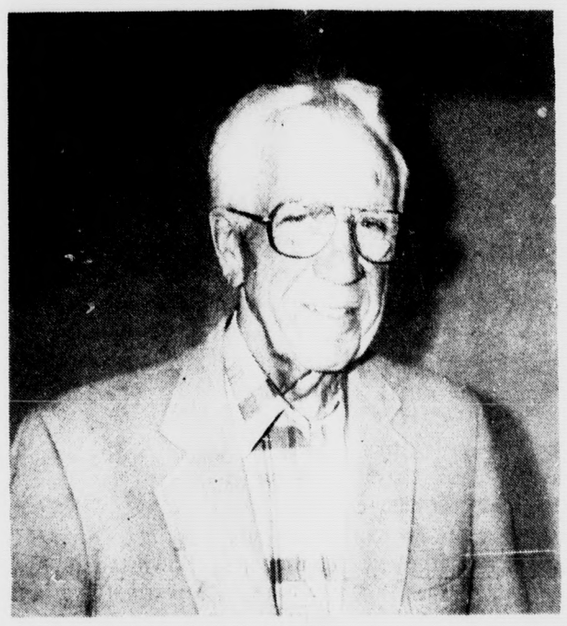

Gathers reports that he is looking forward to a family reunion in Cleveland this summer when he will see all seven grandchildren.

He says he enjoys woodworking, building furniture and doing cabinet work with power tools that he started collecting some 45 years ago.

Gathers was installed for a second term at a recent luncheon along with Bob Archer, first vice-president; Virginia Eyerly, second vice-president; Ester Levy, treasurer; Vera Lanning, recording secretary; Vesta Silver, corresponding secretary; and Bob Van Riper, assistant treasurer.

The Senior Friendship Club, which is open to Arcadia residents over the age of 50, is co-sponsored by Assistance League of Arcadia and the City of Arcadia. The group meets every Wednesday at 11 a.m. at the Community House, 100 S. Santa Anita.

For more information, call the Senior Citizens office at 574-5436.

RAISING SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS — Members of the Foothill Area Alumnae Panhellenic recently held a fund-raising party. Participants include (seated) June Fee, president-elect; (standing) Sallie Parnkopf, Shirley Forden, Pat Colveille and Mary Young.

Panhellenic holds benefit party

A scholarship-benefit party for the Foothill Area Alumnae Panhellenic was held recently in the Arcadia home of Sallie and Fiske Parnkopf.

An Italian theme was emphasized by centerpieces containing different pastas, fresh garlic, colorful peppers and Italian flags.

Assisting chairman Parnkopf were Shirley Forden, artwork/invitations; Mary Young, decorations and printing or invitations; Pat Colville, refreshments; Betty Giles, food; and Ann Firestone, bartending assignments.

The purpose of the event was to help raise funds for next year's Foothill Area Alumnae Panhellenic Scholarships. This year's winners, Michelle Fuentes and Susan Harmon, both Arcadia residents, each received $1000 toward furthering an education at a four-year college or university and joining a Panhellenic sorority.

Russell's SB 1491 passes out of Senate

State Senator Newton R. Russell (R-Glendale) announced that his legislation which addresses a problem faced by family members when seeking treatment for their mentally ill family members has just passed the Senate.

Under current state law, in order for a mentally ill person to be eligible for treatment under state civil commitment procedures, he or she must be unable to provide for their basic needs for food, clothing, or shelter. The courts, however, have ruled that such individuals cannot receive state care if he or she has family members or friends who are willing to assist that person to "survive safely in freedom."

Family members who, either emotionally, physically, or financially, are unable to care for a mentally ill relative are required to publicly "disavow" this person during civil commitment hearings in order for that person to be deemed eligible for treatment under the law.

Under Senate Bill 1941, when a family member requests that the mentally ill relative be evaluated, medically treated, or put under conservatorship, that request will automatically in of itself meet the technicality of disavowal and will establish the fact that they cannot or will not care for this mentally ill person.

By eliminating the necessity to publicly "disavow" a mentally ill relative during commitment hearing procedures, SB 1491 will, therefore, remove some of the anguish and possibile hesitation involved with involuntarily committing a mentally ill person in need of treatment.

LEGEND 464
THE LUXURY SEDAN FOR THOSE WHO CONSIDER PERFORMANCE A NECESSITY.

The Acura Legend Sedan offers the acceleration, braking, handling and overall roadworthiness of a performance car. And the comfort, appointments and overall refinement of a luxury car. Not necessarily in that order.

Because when it came to designing the Legend Sedan, the highest priority was to create an automobile with a combination of performance and luxury that compromised neither.

That's why every Legend Sedan offers the smooth power of a 24-valve, fuel-injected V-6 engine. The precise handling of a front and rear fully independent, double wishbone suspension. An aerodynamic exterior and ergonomic interior. And a list of amenities like a leather-trimmed interior and an Acura/Bose® Music System that just about anyone can be comfortable with.

The performance begins with a test drive.

Local participants to drive in annual Youth Safety Run

Members of the Arcadia Police Explorer Post No 101 and the Chariots Car Club will participate in the 36th Annual Youth Safety Run sponsored by the Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs.

The run, which promotes sportsmanship and fairness through the main goal of gas economy, will begin early Monday, June 26 from Pomona. The participants will drive to Yosemite National Park along a specified route and will return to Pomona on Wednesday.

Each entry is manned by three youth participants, ages 16-20 years. The driver is responsible for 60 percent of the driving; the co-driver is asked to do 40 percent of the driving; and the observer does not drive but notes any infractions of the vehicle code or the run rules.

Approximately 40 cars will be divided into 16 classes ranging from subcompact four cylinder autos to eight cylinder standard and large cars.

Donating cars for the local participants are Becherer Buick of Monrovia, Jim Butler Oldsmobile of Ontario and Pasadena Chrysler Plymouth.

Sponsors for the Arcadia entries are the local Lions Club, Kiwanis Club, Civitans Club and the West Arcadia Business and Professional Association.

Co-sponsors of the Youth Safety Run include Arcadia Civitan Club, Burbank Civitan Club, Dan Querrery Racking Inc. of Arcadia and the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners at a banquet on Friday, June 30 at the Pomona Valley Mining Company in Pomona.

Special Olympics torch carried across Arcadia

Three Arcadia police officers participated in the California Special Olympics Law Enforcement Torch Run on Monday in an effort to raise public awareness for Special Olympics and some 21,000 Californians with mental retardation.

Officer Toni Caylor, Sergeant Steve Gilmore and Sergeant Harry Verhiley carried the torch from Live Oak and Myrtle Ave. some three miles to Las Tunas and Baldwin Avenue where they turned it over to officer from the Los Angeles Sheriff's office in Temple City.

The torch is due to arrive at UCLA on Friday, June 23 to begin the annual California Special Olympics Summer Games.

Actually two torches were lit on Wednesday, June 14, one at the Capitol in Sacramento and one aboard the USS Independence Aircraft Carrier in San Diego. The one that came through Arcadia started in San Diego. With the assistance of police, sheriff and Highway Patrol departments throughout the state. Runners will carry the torch approximately 1000 miles in the 10 days preceding the Summer Games.

Sportsweek set by realty board

The Real Estate Professionals Auxiliary will again be sponsoring Sportsweek for all Arcadia Board of Realtors' members to participate in June 23-24.

Included in the events will be a 5K run/walk, volleyball matches, and tennis at Arcadia High School, and a golf tournament held at the Santa Anita Golf Course.

This is one of the many fund-raising activities run by the Arcadia Board of Realtors for charitable organizations.

Volleyball event at Rose Bowl

Players of B, A and Open status will be competing for cash and prizes in the Pasadena Grass Doubles Volleyball Tournament to be held on Saturday and Sunday, June 24-25 on the front lawn of the Rose Bowl.

In addition to volleyball, there will be live entertainment, food and beverages.

On Sunday, June 25, KROQ will host the Sixth Annual Bikini/Shorts Search Finals hosted by Poor Man.

Golf an old sport

Golf is one of the world's oldest sports, with documented proof going back to the first century B.C. when the Romans used a bent stick and a feather-stuffed ball.

Arcadia girls volleyball team to compete in L.A. Games finals

Christina Alvarez scored Arcadia's lone goal on a corner kick from Nicole Schram to lead the local soccer team to a 1-0 victory in the semifinals of the Los Angeles Games on Sunday.

The finals will be held at El Camino College on Sunday, June 25 when at 10 a.m. Arcadia will face Hawthorne, the same team that beat the local squad in overtime of the finals last year. This year, Hawthorne, Bay League Champions, made it to the finals with identical 1-0 wins over Chaminade, Los Altos and Royal.

Arcadia, which finished the season as Foothill League Champs, drew cross town rival, Temple City, in the opener of the L.A. Games last Saturday. Missy Talbert scored on an assist by Collette Connors early in the first half as Arcadia held a 1-0 lead until just before the game ended when the Apaches were called for a penalty. Renee Scott scored on a penalty kick for Temple City to tie the game.

In a best a five penalty kicks to break the tie, Arcadia's Tracy Harmon, Michelle Kennedy and Jenny Franco scored while Connors went in as goalie to block the first two Temple City Kicks and the third kicker missed the target.

In the quarterfinals on Sunday, Arcadia overpowered San Pedro 7-0, outshooting the opponent 21-3. Two goals were scored by Kennedy and Angela Giakas with Jennifer Wall and Kendra Carlile assisting Kennedy while Heidi Ramage got an assist on one Giakas goal and the other was unassisted.

Others scoring for the Apaches were Connors on a corner kick from Colleen Cooke, and both Talbert and Cooke got unassisted goals.

While the Arcadia girls soccer team is still competing in the L.A. Games the girls volleyball team lost in the quarterfinals and the boys volleyball team lost to Mira Costa 15-7 in the finals last weekend.
